

FIGHTING IN LAWRENCE

JOHN C. BURKE BURIED

Funeral of Well Known Attorney Took Place This Afternoon

The funeral services of John C. Burke were held at his late residence, 23 Eleventh street, at two o'clock this afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and business associates and acquaintances of this city, Boston, and from beyond the borders of this state.

The Rev. James E. Gregg, pastor of the Kirk Street Congregational church, read the Scripture selections and delivered the eulogy. His reading of the beautiful hymn "Be Still, My Soul," from the German of Katharina von Schlegel, was most appropriate and impressive. He spoke very feelingly of Mr. Burke's many splendid qualities, of his kindness of heart, of his marked faculty of making and keeping friends, of his personal magnetism, and his ability in his chosen profession.

Among the delegations were the following: Boston Bar association—Hon. Charles H. Littlefield, Hon. James H. Vane, Lowell Bar association—John J. Harvey, William H. Bent, Thomas J. Wright, John W. McEvoy, Denis J. Murphy, Francis W. Qua, Hon. Frederick N. Wier.

Pentucket lodge, A. F. & A. M.—Charles H. McIntire, Melvin Rogers, Robert Kennedy, Louis Alexander. Teachers' National bank—James F. Corbett, Othello O. Greenwood, Amos F. Hill, William F. Hill, Clarence H. Nelson, George A. Scribner, Alvi T. Baldwin, Elmore C. Green.

The floral tributes from relatives, friends and various business and fraternal organizations were beautiful and in great profusion.

The bearers were James F. Corbett, P. L. Gregoire, C. H. Osmond, Laforest, Reals, Joe V. Meigs, and F. M. Hill.

Amos F. Hill had general charge, and Charles M. Young officiated as undertaker. Interment was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery.

Bar Association Acts

The meeting of the newly organized Samuel P. Hadley Bar association was held in the police court room shortly before ten o'clock this morning. Owing to the inability of President Samuel P. Hadley to be present, Judge John L. Pickman called to order.

Judge Pickman said: "We have met here for the first time to take action on the death of a fellow member of the bar, the late John C. Burke. We have met for the purpose of paying a tribute to an honored member of the bar, a citizen and a person whose loss will be felt by the community."

On motion of Lawrence John J. Harvey the following members of the bar were appointed to act as a committee to attend the funeral this afternoon: John J. Harvey, Francis W. Qua, John W. McEvoy, William H. Bent, Thomas J. Wright, Denis J. Murphy and Frederick N. Wier.

Daniel J. Donahue made a motion that a committee of three be appointed to draw up resolutions and Messrs. Donahue, Frederick A. Fisher and William B. Wilson were appointed.

SIXTEEN ARRESTS

Police Reserves Were Called Out

in Lawrence Today

LAWRENCE, March 7.—Demonstrations in various parts of the city, the sending away of 40 children to Philadelphia and the departure of six members of the general strike committee for Boston to confer with the officials of the American Woolen Co. were developments today of the textile workers' strike. Peaceful picketing was disregarded by hundreds of strikers, who resorted to more forceful methods.

Disturbances occurred in various sections. As a result 16 persons were arrested. Because of the activity of the strikers only small gains, if any, were made in the number of operatives entering the mill gates. While on his way to the Atlantic mills Daniel O'Connell was held up by three foreigners at the corner of Jackson and Logan streets. He received a slight cut in the back of the neck. Coeur Miquate, alleged to be one of O'Connell's assailants, was arrested, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Several hundred persons gathered during the trouble but were dispersed by the police. About 400 persons gathered near the Franco-Belgian hall and became so demonstrative that a squad of police was rushed to the scene. The officers charged the crowd several times before it was dispersed. When quiet had been restored Policeman Joseph F. Tobin discovered that his coat had been cut by a knife.

Several thousand pickets walked up and down Essex street, at times yelling and hooting at the police. The strikers and their sympathizers were unusually active in this action. Operatives going to work were stopped in numerous cases and in some cases assaulted.

Several arrests were made during the trouble. Police reserves were rushed to the scene and the crowd was finally dispersed after being driven from Essex street into the Common.

THE POLICE

MADE NO ATTEMPT TO PREVENT DEPARTURE OF CHILDREN

LAWRENCE, March 7.—The police made no attempt today to prevent the departure of 40 children of striking textile operatives, although the officers held up the party at the railroad station long enough to secure the name and address of every child making the trip.

The children left the North Lawrence station soon after seven o'clock. They were accompanied by six delegates from the strike committee of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The departure of the children was the principal event of the early morning hours, although disturbances in which the pickets of the strikers figured received some police attention and twelve arrests had been made previously to eight o'clock. One of the persons taken to the police station today was a woman. All were charged with some minor offense, principally in connection with attempting to intimidate returning workers.

Observers at the mill gates reported during the forenoon that there was no noticeable increase in the number of operatives returning. This indicated that the ranks of the Industrial Workers of the World remained virtually unbroken. A crowd of about 200 persons, in addition to thirty policemen, witnessed the departure of the children. A police sergeant demanded of the strike leaders in charge of the party the name of every child in the delegation. After considerable delay the names were forthcoming and the police then left the station premises, fearing, it was explained, that their continued presence might precipitate trouble. The youngsters boarded the little shuttle train that runs from North Lawrence to the Junction Point at South Lawrence, cheering and waving hats and handkerchiefs at their parents many of whom were weeping anxiously. When the train reached the South Lawrence station all of the children were sent back to the North Lawrence station again in order that the addresses of the children and the name of each parent might be obtained for the benefit of the police.

This information furnished in a manner satisfactory to the authorities, the children finally were allowed to depart for Boston in the first stage of their all-day journey. Ten members of the strike committee went to Boston during the forenoon to attend a conference with the officials of the American Woolen Co. in the presence of the legislative committee on conciliation at the state house.

The first arrests today were made on Hampshire street, where two strikers were taken into custody for disorderly conduct. Several hundred strikers made an attempt to enter South Lawrence but they were turned back by the police and marched down Essex street. Hooting and shouting, the crowd walked along the street and the police arrested a few of the leaders, taking them to the station in automobiles. The marchers then went into the Italian district and thence to the Common. The reserve officers were called out to break up the strikers when they gathered at the junction of Common and Jackson streets. At first the men and women refused to disband but after a delay of several minutes they scattered.

American Woolen Co. and his counsel, Samuel L. Powers.

The conference was held behind closed doors and began shortly after 11 o'clock.

THE FINING SYSTEM

In the Fire Department Abolished by Commissioner Barrett

The fire department fine system, in vogue in the fire department for years, has been abolished by Commissioner Barrett. Hereafter when fines were imposed the money went to the fire house to which the men who were fined belonged and the money was divided amongst the men or used for the purchase of knick-knacks for the house.

The fines ranged from 50 cents to a dollar and totaled a very considerable amount at the end of the year. If a fireman failed to put in an appearance when his box sounded he was fined $1 and his failure to show up for an alarm from any box other than his own the fine was 50 cents. The fine for those who left their boxes open was 25 cents.

Hereafter the amount of the fines will be deducted from their pay, for it is the system, not the fine, that has been abolished. The firemen will still have to settle if they fail to respond to the bell but instead of the fine money going back to them as an incident fund, so to speak, it will go to the city.

INSTANTLY KILLED

Switchman Victim of an Accident

CLEVELAND, O., March 7.—Five Pullman cars of Lake Shore and Michigan Southern train number 25, the Twentieth Century Limited, were derailed just outside the Collinwood yards here early today. They smashed into a trestle occupied by George Meier, a switchman, almost instantly killing him.

A few of the passengers suffered trivial injuries. George Hall of Waukegan, Ill., was taken to a hospital, where an arm was amputated. None of the train crew was hurt. It is supposed a broken wheel caused the derailment. The train, westbound and due in Cleveland at 2:35 was 30 minutes late and running fast. The engine, and

AT THE CONFERENCE IN BOSTON TODAY

BOSTON, March 7.—Forty children of Lawrence strikers passed through Boston today on their way to Philadelphia, where they are to be cared for until the strike is over. The children, escorted by six adults, left Boston on New York, New Haven & Hartford train at 10:05 a. m.

Another effort was made at the state house today by the legislative committee on conciliation to settle that part of the strike that includes the mills of the American Woolen Co.

A delegation of nine strikers, of several nationalities, came down from Lawrence and were escorted to the committee room, where they found not only a majority of the committee but

THREE HORSE ENGINE

Transferred from Pawtucketville Fire House to Branch Street

The three-horse fire engine at the Pawtucketville firehouse is to be transferred to the Branch street house and the lighter engine at the Branch street house will go to the Fourth street house in Centerville.

Commissioner Barrett, who has charge of the fire department, allows that the big engine at the Fletcher street house can take care of Pawtucketville and be transferred the big engine to Branch street because the Highlands district requires a big engine on account of the low pressure.

"There is really no call for an engine in Pawtucketville," said the commissioner to The Sun reporter who asked relative to the transfer, "and by transferring the big engine from that house to Branch street additional expense is avoided and the service is not in any way impaired. The Fletcher street engine can cover Pawtucketville all right and the big engine to be transferred to Branch street will take care of the Highlands.

Centerville, Belvidere and the Highlands are the three districts where heavy engines are required. The pressure in these three places is low and a bigger engine should have been provided the Highlands long ago. The small engine to be transferred from Branch street will improve the service in Centerville and I feel that the transfers will improve the service.

This new arrangement will leave the Pawtucketville house with only a hose carriage and when asked relative to the men at that house, Ald. Barrett said he was not prepared to discuss the phase of the question at this time. The proposed transfers will give the department two and possibly three spare horses and they will be disposed of either in sale or in trade.

LARCENY IS CHARGED

Former Treasurer of United Shoe Workers Arraigned in Court

Joseph H. Donovan, the treasurer of the local branch of the United Shoe Workers of America, appeared before Judge John J. Pickman in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $67.50 from the organization. Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston appeared for the government and the defense. Inasmuch as there was considerable law quibbling during the course of the hearing it proved to be a very lengthy case.

Joseph C. Taff, of Braintree, was the first witness for the government. He testified that formerly he was financial secretary of the local branch and identified books which were shown in court. The purpose of the money had been to show that money had been received which had not been accounted for. One of the books showed that on February 25, 1910, there had been a collection of $10.43 which had not been accounted for by the treasurer.

On cross-examination the witness said that he was a member of the local branch until it was discontinued. Patrick B. Dempsey of 638 Broadway testified that he was president of the local branch and that the union disbanded. He said that he never received any money from Mr. Donovan.

It was at this point that counsel in the case got into a heated argument. Mr. Mansfield had quoted law relative to the matter in question and several law books were produced. Mr. Donahue after perusing one of the books stated to the court that there was nothing in the volume which related to the case and added: "Mr. Mansfield, you are simply bluffing."

After the heat of the argument had worn away Elmer F. Robinson was called. He testified that he is an organizer for the National Shoe Workers of America. The testimony which he gave was declared incompetent by the court.

Lawyer Donahue appearing for the defense denied the handwriting on the books and stubs, stating that there was no proof of the organization and neither was there any proof of a charter. The defense claimed that the organization was a voluntary, unincorporated organization. No witnesses for the defense were called and the court continued the matter until tomorrow morning in order to look into the law.

Crucity to a Horse

Joseph E. Brouillard and John R. Pettit, two young men who reside in North Cambridge, were arraigned in court this morning on a complaint charging them with cruelly abusing a horse belonging to the Dana Hill stables in Cambridge. Mr. Maurice M. Lynch of Cambridge represented the defendants and the case was prosecuted by Mr. Harry L. Allen, agent of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Joseph E. Noonan, of 43 Ellery street, testified that on Sunday, February 25th Brouillard hired a horse and buggy and sold it would be back at five o'clock. Subsequently he learned that the horse had been driven to Nashua and then to this city where the animal died on the following day. On cross-examination the witness admitted that he asked Brouillard for $150 for the loss of the horse.

Sidney T. Heathcock testified to seeing the defendants and another young man near the corner of Branch and Canal streets about six o'clock on the morning of the 26th. He said that the trio was in a buggy and one of them inquired the location of a livery stable. He said the horse was staggering. He directed them to Mr. Taylor's stable in South street.

George H. Taylor, proprietor of the stable, said that the defendants led the horse into his stable early in the morning and wanted to have him fed. Food was given the horse but the animal refused to eat and died at four o'clock in the afternoon.

James R. Fisher, foreman at Taylor's stable, testified relative to the condition of the animal when brought into the stable.

Harry L. Allen, agent of the M. S. P. C. A., the prosecuting officer, was the next witness. He said that he visited the defendants at their place of employment in East Cambridge on the first of March and they admitted that when the horse was hired they intended to go to North Woburn but lost their way and found themselves in Lowell and in trying to get back to North Woburn they were directed in the wrong manner and went to Nashua, after which they came back to Lowell and the horse as so tired that they unhitched the animal from the buggy and led him to Taylor's livery stable. During the course of the testimony the witness said that Brouillard said: "I knew that the horse was hungry and in Nashua I gave him a half of a sandwich."

Walter B. Pope, also an agent of the M. S. P. C. A., was the next witness.

His testimony was practically along the same line as that offered by Mr. Allen.

The Defense

The first witness for the defense was Emil C. Brouillard, aged 19 years, of 11 Jackson street, Cambridge. He testified to having hired the horse and paying $1 to the stable keeper. He later met Pettit and the pair started for Woburn but they lost their way and subsequently found themselves in Lowell. They then followed another road which brought them to Nashua. After having a luncheon at Nashua they started to return towards Cambridge but upon reaching Lowell the horse was in such a poor condition that they decided to place it in a livery stable.

Pettit, who lives at 155 Pemberton street, North Cambridge, corroborated the testimony offered by the other defendants.

The court found both defendants guilty and ordered each to pay a fine of $30, but at the request of counsel the fines were withdrawn and the defendants held under bonds for sentence until Saturday.

Drunk Offenders

John W. Biner and Joseph Badaou, charged with being drunk and being in possession of a gun and each was ordered to pay a fine of $5. There were three simple drunks who were released before the opening of the court.

FUNERALS

PETTINGILL—The funeral of Mr. Harry R. Pettingill took place from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. R. S. Fulton, 27 Myrtle street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and was largely attended. The burial services were conducted by Rev. B. A. Willmott, pastor of the First Congregational church, and there were appropriate selections sung by Mrs. Dunham and Mrs. Hanway. The bearers were Messrs. George Worthen, from Post 12, G. A. R., George Bulmer from the post office, H. Parker and F. W. Delson, from the William North lodge of Masons. Rev. Mr. Willmott read the committal services at the grave, and burial was in the family lot in the Edson cemetery, in charge of Undertakers J. B. Garrier Co.

REACHED SOUTH POLE

Captain Scott, British Explorer, Successful in His Expedition

WELLINGTON, N. Z., March 7.—Captain Raold Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, states that Captain Scott, the British explorer, reached the South pole.

Captain Robert Falcon Scott started on his expedition from Port Lockroy, N. Z., on Nov. 29, 1910. He had made previous expeditions under the direction of the Royal Geographical society. At that time he attained a record of 82 degrees, 39 minutes, which remained the record up to the time of Lieut. Shackleton's notable exploit. Shackleton in 1907 reached 88 degrees, 23 minutes, or about 100 miles from the pole.

This remained the record. Captain Scott took the route by way of Australia and New Zealand. He sailed the south into Ross sea, a great stretch of water reaching toward the south pole. His chief competitor in this dash was Captain Amundsen, who is commissioned by the king of Norway and the Norwegian government.

Amundsen chose the route by way of South America as against Scott and three others, who went by the Antarctic route. Amundsen left Buenos Ayres on board the Fram toward the close of 1910. He passed through the Straits of Magellan and then steered for Ross sea, the same sheet of water which Scott had gained by way of the New Zealand and Australian route.

The World's Greatest Tonic Medicine

And Most Useful Household Remedy

Starting as a doctor's prescription twenty years ago, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now a general sale in every civilized country in the world and their cures extend to the globe.

The prescription was used by the doctor in his private practice and was found to have such a wide field of usefulness that the remedy was given to the world by being placed on sale with complete directions for use written by the doctor himself. These directions have now been translated into every language, but the familiar registered trade-mark is prominent on every package, so the purchasers may be certain they are buying the genuine, whether they buy in the city pharmacy, the corner drug store, the country store or their druggists in foreign lands.

Great credit is due to the doctor for his ability to produce such a wonderful demand. Without it advertising could never accomplish this result. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built up the blood, strengthened the nerves and gave energy and vitality to weak, exhausted, discouraged men and women. Their virtues are constantly spread abroad by those whom they have cured.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a tonic—not an ordinary tonic, but one that has made many almost miraculous cures in obstinate diseases. They give just the aid required to bring back health and strength to the nervous and exhausted. They are useful in any disease caused by thin or impure blood and the list of such diseases is astonishingly large.

Anemia literally means "lack of blood" and is a condition in which the blood is thin and watery. Chlorosis, or green sickness, is a form of anemia most common in growing girls. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for these troubles.

After an attack of the grip, or of acute fever, malaria, scarlet, or typhoid, the blood is thin and impure. Sometimes the after-effects are worse than the disease and years of ill health have followed a single attack of the grip. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood; the restored blood burns up the poisons and normal health follows. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the tonic to use during convalescence.

In no disease does the blood show a more rapid altering and thinning than in rheumatism. No permanent cure is possible until the blood is restored. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and enable it to cast out the rheumatic poisons with the natural secretions of the body.

Without a supply of well-oxygenized blood, good digestion is impossible. When the blood is thin and poor the food remains undigested in the stomach and fermentation causes heartburn. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enable the blood to absorb oxygen. It becomes rich and red and the stomach trouble disappears.

The nerves receive all their nourishment through the blood. Thin, weak blood is quickly followed by starved nerves or morbid, or by nervous exhaustion, which is called "neurasthenia." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured so many people with exhausted nervous systems, people who had "overdrawn" their fund of nervous energy, that there can be no question of their efficacy in such cases.

Some forms of paralysis are caused by thin blood and are cured when the blood is built up. The record of such cures by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is astounding enough to cause any sufferer to give the remedy serious consideration.

The progress of locomotor ataxia is stopped in many cases when the blood is made rich and red and immediately the work of repair, or re-education of the nerve begins. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had almost miraculous success in the treatment of this disease and we have guarded against doubters and unbelievers by having some very remarkable endorsements accompanied by sworn affidavits and by the testimony of disinterested witnesses.

General Debility
The cure of Mrs. A. H. Birney, of No. 36 Davis street, Greenfield, Mass., shows the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For over six months following an operation I remained in a weak and run-down condition. I was tired out all of the time and had no strength or ambition. I had weak spells when I was hardly able to get around. I became very thin and had no color."

"During this time I was at my home but became no better. My husband finally advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began to feel better after I had used four or five boxes but kept right on for I believe in giving a medicine a good trial. In a few weeks I was in good health again. I gained in strength and weight and could sleep well. Since using the pills I have given them to my three children and they are all in good health."

Had Dizzy Spells
Mrs. Mattie Foster, of No. 135 Spring street, Auburn, Me., says:

"I was in a general run-down condition from hard work, was nervous and had dizzy spells, especially when I stooped over. I had no desire for food as it distressed me, causing gas and making me feel bloated. Also, after eating, I had a suffocating feeling and was so sore about my stomach that I could not bear to touch it. My heart fluttered and was worse when I went up stairs. Following the palpitation there were sharp pains about my heart and arms and I would feel sleepy after these pains. My feet and ankles would often swell to such an extent that some mornings I was unable to put on my shoes. From my hip down my right leg had a numb feeling. It pained when I walked and if I favored it for any length of time, it would become stiff and hurt me to move it. It was partly insensible to feeling. I had fainting, sinking spells and could get relief only when I had fresh air. I was restless and could not sleep at night."

"I was treated for a long time by two doctors. They said that I was run-down and that a great deal of my sickness was due to weakness common to women of my age. Their medicine did not relieve me and I grew worse. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I gave them a trial. Although I had been sick for two years, I began to sleep better after taking about two boxes of the pills. I kept up the treatment until I was restored to health. I am able to work now and highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as the best tonic that I ever tried."

Anemia-Bloodlessness
Mrs. William Clark, of No. 12 North Common Terrace, Lynn, Mass., urges every sufferer from anemia to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Her great faith in them is based upon her own experience.

"Two years ago," she says, "I was so sick with anemia that I could not walk on stairs. No one can know how I suffered. I was very pale and had severe headaches with dizzy spells. I was short of breath, my stomach was very weak, food didn't agree with me and I had but little appetite. I became discouraged with my doctor's treatment as he did not help me at all. Finally I decided that I would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I began to feel better by the time I had taken a few boxes and was soon able to eat heartily. I gained in strength until my health was restored."

After-Effects of the Grip
An attack of the grip left John Luce, whose address is Box 55, R. F. D. No. 2, North Anson, Me., in a deplorable physical condition and he found no relief until he took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cured him.

"I was all run down," he says, "after a case with the grip. My appetite left me, my stomach was weak, I was constipated, my kidneys were affected, my head ached and I felt all gone."

"A druggist recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after I had tried several other remedies without getting any relief, and the first box helped me. I took a few boxes altogether and they restored me to perfect health. My mother was also cured by Dr.

Williams' Pink Pills. She was run down in health and strength, was nervous, could not sleep, and was so weak she could not go upstairs without assistance. Her weight fell from 140 pounds to 95. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her."

Rheumatism
Mr. Isaac Walker, of No. 58 East River street, Hyde Park, Mass., had suffered from childhood with rheumatism. It became so severe that he was obliged to give up work for a time. He then gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and was cured. He says:

"I had always suffered with rheumatism in my back and limbs and would be miserable whenever the weather was damp and wet. As I grew older the disease became more firmly seated. I think it was hereditary as my father was a great sufferer from it."

Mrs. Solomon Morgan, of Millinocket, Me., tells of her cure, as follows: "A few years ago I was in a run-down condition from over work. My stomach was weak and food did not agree with me. My heart fluttered and at times there would be a choking sensation in my throat. I suffered severely from backache and could hardly straighten up in the morning. I had frequent headaches through the temples, my feet were swollen and pained me and a week seldom passed that did not find me unable to do my work. The doctor said that I needed rest and he also gave me tonics but I did not seem to get any better. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and could see a change for the better after using them only a short time. A few boxes completely cured me and I have been well ever since. My son has also taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a general run-down condition and was so greatly helped that he has had no occasion to take any medicine since."

St. Vitus' Dance
Mrs. Benson C. Lowe, whose address is R. F. D. West Paris, Me., says, regarding her cure of St. Vitus' dance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills:

"I was a very delicate child and when I was ten years of age I became afflicted with St. Vitus' dance. I was confined to bed for three or four months. My left side was paralyzed and I had no use of my arm or leg. I was helpless. My speech was affected so that I could not speak plainly and I was completely tired out by the twitching of my muscles. Visitors calling on me would unduly excite me. I had palpitation of the heart and dizzy spells."

Another Cure
Mr. B. A. Jarvis, of No. 25 Chase street, Pawtucket, R. I., was cured of a severe case of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says:

"I had rheumatism for eighteen years. The fingers of my right hand were drawn out of shape and my wrist was so sore that the slightest pressure caused me intense pain. There were stinging sensations in my hands when I got up in the morning."

"My brother recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me as he had been benefited by them. After I had used them a short time I found that I was feeling better and I soon became strong and able to work. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for rheumatism. They have been of such benefit to me that I would not be without them."

The doctor said that I needed rest and he also gave me tonics but I did not seem to get any better. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and could see a change for the better after using them only a short time. A few boxes completely cured me and I have been well ever since. My son has also taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a general run-down condition and was so greatly helped that he has had no occasion to take any medicine since."

St. Vitus' Dance
Mrs. Benson C. Lowe, whose address is R. F. D. West Paris, Me., says, regarding her cure of St. Vitus' dance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills:

"I was a very delicate child and when I was ten years of age I became afflicted with St. Vitus' dance. I was confined to bed for three or four months. My left side was paralyzed and I had no use of my arm or leg. I was helpless. My speech was affected so that I could not speak plainly and I was completely tired out by the twitching of my muscles. Visitors calling on me would unduly excite me. I had palpitation of the heart and dizzy spells."

Another Cure

severe case of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says:

"I had rheumatism for eighteen years. The fingers of my right hand were drawn out of shape and my wrist was so sore that the slightest pressure caused me intense pain. There were stinging sensations in my hands when I got up in the morning."

"My brother recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me as he had been benefited by them. After I had used them a short time I found that I was feeling better and I soon became strong and able to work. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for rheumatism. They have been of such benefit to me that I would not be without them."

Stomach Trouble
Mrs. Solomon Morgan, of Millinocket, Me., tells of her cure, as follows: "A few years ago I was in a run-down condition from over work. My stomach was weak and food did not agree with me. My heart fluttered and at times there would be a choking sensation in my throat. I suffered severely from backache and could hardly straighten up in the morning. I had frequent headaches through the temples, my feet were swollen and pained me and a week seldom passed that did not find me unable to do my work. The doctor said that I needed rest and he also gave me tonics but I did not seem to get any better. PROBABLY MURDERED

Steamer Employee Has Been Missing Since February 16

BOSTON, March 7.—What it is believed may develop into one of the unsolved tragedies of modern life is the mysterious disappearance of James J. Rutherford, formerly employed on the steamer Governor Dingley, who, his brother believes, was murdered in Boston on Feb. 16.

The man's brother, Frank Rutherford, deputy city marshal of Boston, Me., has been conducting a search since last Monday, aided by police and detectives, but without success. No motive for the murder is known. Rutherford having worked steadily on board the Governor Dingley, according to his brother. He was well spoken of by both the officers of the steamer and those who knew him at his home in Eastport.

On Feb. 15 he received his month's pay, and the steamer arriving in Boston Harbor the following day, Rutherford was given leave for 24 hours.

When the Governor Dingley sailed for Maine ports Rutherford was not aboard. His relatives, to whom word was sent at Eastport, immediately began an investigation. They discovered that Rutherford reached the wharf just after the steamer had left, but from that time all trace of him has been lost.

It was thought that he might have gone to New York to visit his sister, but inquiries by telegraph dispelled this hope. Lodging houses were searched and hospitals visited, but without result, until his brother was forced to the conclusion that he had met with foul play.

UNION MEETING

Of Foresters Was Held
Last Night

A well attended mass meeting of local Foresters was held last night in Foresters' hall, Middle street for the purpose of arousing interest in a campaign for increased membership. The principal speaker of the evening was William J. Mitchell, grand chief ranger of Massachusetts. Several other speakers were heard and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

With an attendance of about 200 Foresters, John Barrett of this city, deputy grand chief ranger of Massachusetts, stepped to the podium and after a preliminary address he introduced the grand chief ranger of the state, Mr.

DEPUTY JOHN BARRETT,
Presiding Officer.

William J. Mitchell, who made an interesting address on the order since its inception in England in 1789. He spoke at length on the first courts of the order and also on the first one established in this state, Court Goodspeed of Philadelphia which was organized in 1861. In the course of his remarks he gave important statistics saying there were 295 courts in Massachusetts and 1500 throughout the states with a membership roll of 15,000 in the state and 212,000 in the United States. Last year the order paid out $22,000 in death benefits and about $131,000 to sick members. On Jan. 1 of the present year there were $250,000 in the state treasury.

David A. Barry of Peabody, a member of the state executive council spoke at length on the rapid growth of the Foresters and induced the members to continue working in the interest of the order by recruiting new members.

The other speakers were Past Grand Secretary James J. Gallagher of this city who spoke of the first Foresters courts in Lowell. Past Supreme Chief Ranger William A. Hogan, Grand Secretary William Stratford, Charles J. Marren of Merrimack court, John Condon of the state executive council, Edward P. Slattery, John P. Connolly and Narcisse Gadois.

At the close of the speeches Commissioner James E. Donnelly delighted the assembly with several of his well rendered selections. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by David Gerow, past chief ranger of Court Merrimack and one of the deputies.

THE SCHOOL FUNDS Ministers Want Provision Against Sectarian Schools

BOSTON, March 7.—The possibility of the parochial schools demanding a portion of the school funds came up at a hearing in the state house before the committee on constitutional amendments yesterday at which a number of Protestant ministers and others were present. Among the speakers were Rev. William H. van Allen, Rabbi Charles Fleischer, Norman H. White and Rev. O. P. Gilford of Brookline, who led the agitation to prevent the 9th regiment from parading in the reception to Cardinal O'Connell.

Rev. Mr. van Allen declared that the measure, which was a amendment providing for the prohibition of appropriating public money for sectarian purposes, was not aimed at any particular religion. Rabbi Fleischer called the attention of the committee to this remark later and said that it was noticeable that as the hearing progressed the speakers had become more frank.

Rev. Mr. van Allen spoke mostly on separating church and state, and said that in his opinion the constitutional amendment was necessary to prevent the interference of the state in religious institutions. If the state nationalized it, he argued, it will sooner or later demand the right to regulate the education of the child.

He said that since the prohibition was not in the constitution it should be placed there in the interests of religion itself. The pressure that is brought to bear on legislators, he said, was well understood by him, and he hinted that he, if he wished, could exert at this session enough of it to make the members uncomfortable in favor of the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion. It was this pressure, he went on, that he wished to protect the legislators from. Ex-Representative White argued on the general proposition that public money should be kept in the public treasury, and that they never should, under any circumstances, be expended for sectarian purposes.

"How would you class appropriations for chaplains in penal institutions?" asked Representative Meade of Brockton.

"I should favor a change, if it be necessary," declared Mr. White, "that would permit of chaplains being employed and thus permit any man prisoner, be his faith what it may, to have the consolation of his own religion."

Prof. Henry S. Nash of the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge was the first to make it a controversy with the Catholic church. "As the laws now are," he said, "the school money is divided and the legislature couldn't do a thing to prevent it. Yet it was a condition which, some well-informed men believed, would happen some time."

For that reason he asked the committee to look to the future. The parochial schools, he said, would ask for a division of the school funds and one of the bitterest controversies that the nation has ever seen will surely follow.

FIREMEN WERE INJURED At Stubborn Blaze in Providence Last Night

PROVIDENCE, March 7.—Twenty firemen were buried in the ruins when the wall of a four-story brick building in South Water street collapsed during a fire last night. Eleven were taken to the hospital, two with injuries which may prove fatal.

The men were at work on ladders placed against the outer wall of the building when it fell. Citizens joined with other firemen and the police in the rescue work and succeeded in pulling all out alive. Physicians on the spot were able to dress the wounds of some of the men so that they could at once go to work.

Of those taken to the hospital the most seriously injured were:

William Kelly, spine fractured.

Clarence Horton, spine fractured.

Capt. Frank Charlesworth, right leg fractured in two places.

The others sustained cuts, bruises and minor injuries, but no broken bones.

The fire was in a building occupied by M. S. Alper & Sons at 222-224 South Water street, formerly used as a junk shop, but more recently as a storage house for old paper and rags. The building was destroyed with a loss of $25,000, while the stock stored within was valued at $2000. The stock was not known.

WOMAN MURDERED

Mrs. Eva F. Ingalls Was Slain by Her Former Friend

LYNN, March 7.—With a heavy police revolver, which mysteriously disappeared from an officer's home more than a year ago, Jesse Chapman, aged 46, of 24 Fair Oaks avenue, last night shot and almost instantly killed Mrs. Eva Florence Ingalls, aged 47, of 24 Fair Oaks avenue, whose life she has repeatedly threatened since she terminated their friendship last summer.

The shooting occurred on Lyndon street, about 100 feet from Fair Oaks avenue. Mrs. Chapman was walking toward her home, while Mrs. Ingalls was hurrying along intent upon catching an electric car at the terminus of the Lynn Woods line. When the women met Mrs. Chapman drew the .38-caliber revolver and, pressing the muzzle against the abdomen of Mrs. Ingalls, pulled the trigger.

Mrs. Ingalls dropped to the sidewalk and started to roll toward the gutter. Mrs. Chapman, standing over her, fired five times in quick succession, until the chambers of the weapon were emptied. A few minutes later she entered the house of George B. Eaton, at the corner of Fair Oaks avenue, and, clutching the handgun in her hand, had replaced the revolver said to Mrs. Eaton. "You haven't any idea, I'm waiting for the authorities."

She was subsequently arrested by Patrolmen John T. Curry and John Clark, and was locked up at the station street station, charged with murder.

Temporarily insanity, attributable to affliction from which Mrs. Chapman has been suffering for more than a year, is assigned by police and neighbors as the real cause of the crime.

Had Threatened a Policeman

For months her actions have been of such a character as to lead neighbors to conclude that she was a dangerous woman, and several women on Fair Oaks avenue confessed last night that they have been afraid of her for some time.

When it became known recently that Mrs. Chapman had threatened to shoot Frank A. Barrill, a retired Lynn policeman, with whom she had been very friendly for seven years, the neighbors became more firmly convinced that she was insane and that she would do harm to some one.

The killing of Mrs. Ingalls did not create as much surprise in the neighborhood as a murder generally does, for friends of both women, appreciating the cause of the crime, were outspoken in their expressions of sympathy for the husband of Mrs. Chapman and for the family of Mrs. Ingalls.

An investigation last night disclosed that Mrs. Chapman had been away during the afternoon and that she took the 5:30 car from Central square for Lynn Woods. She arrived at the terminus at 5:50 and started to walk along Lyndon street toward Fair Oaks ave. She carried the big revolver which developments disclosed had either been found by Mrs. Chapman or had been taken from the house of Patrolman Barrill, who missed the weapon a year ago. It was a weapon made especially for the use of policemen, and bore the stamp and number of the Lynn department.

At what is known as Hacker's drive-way, a road leading from a hill back of Fair Oaks ave. to Lyndon street, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ingalls met. The latter had left her home about 6 o'clock to walk to the terminus of the street car line, and it was merely accidental that she met Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Ingalls Dies in Ambulance

What then occurred was described in the following words by Mrs. Chapman, when Patrolman Curry was questioning her: "That woman ruined my life. To feel sure that I was not mistaken, I followed her and asked her if she was Mrs. Ingalls. She answered that she was, and then I told her: 'You know the rest.'"

While speaking these few words Mrs. Chapman drew the revolver from her bag and fired. Persons who heard the six shots declared that there was an interval of several seconds between the first and the second shots, but that the last four shots were in such rapid succession that they were fired as quickly as Mrs. Chapman could pull the trigger.

While Mrs. Ingalls was dying, Patrolmen Chapman walked slowly along Lyndon street until she turned into Fair Oaks avenue. Just as she turned the corner, Mrs. Alice M. Breech of 252 Lyndon street, who had heard a shot and who looked from her window as the last three were fired, cried out to Mrs. Eaton, across the street, that a man had been killed.

Upon hearing Mrs. Breech's words, Mrs. Chapman turned around on Fair Oaks avenue and ran back and into the Eaton home. There she sat down in the parlor and said: "I had to do it. You haven't any idea." She was not greatly excited, and after a few moments she told Mrs. Eaton that she wanted the police to take her.

A telephone message brought an automobile ambulance from Sutton street, and while Officer Curry placed Mrs. Chapman under arrest the body of Mrs. Ingalls, with just a spark of consciousness, was hurriedly placed in the ambulance and a quick trip was made to the Lynn hospital. When the surgeons examined the body she was dead.

Police Find Revolver. While waiting for the return of the ambulance, Officer Curry took the hand-bag which Mrs. Chapman clung to, and upon opening it discovered the revolver. Mrs. Chapman made but little talk with the police and when Inspector Brookes, who assumed charge of the case, tried to tell her to admit that she had shot Mrs. Ingalls, she refused to forget the statements which she had made to Mrs. Eaton and to Officer Curry.

Her husband, Oliver S. Chapman, learned of the arrest of his wife before she had been removed from the Eaton home and he tried to calm her, although she was not in a very excited frame of mind. He accompanied her to the station street station and immediately after she had been locked up, Scott Peters of Haverhill to act as her counsel.

ACCUSED HIS WIFE

Well Known Atlanta Man Says That She Shot Him

ATLANTA, March 7.—"God knows I am innocent," exclaimed Mrs. Daisy Ullrich Opie Grace yesterday, after her release on bail pending a hearing on the charge of assault with intent to murder her young husband, Eugene H. Grace, a building contractor, who was mysteriously shot at their handsome 11th street home yesterday.

Physicians said that Grace has but slight chance for recovery. The bullet penetrated the left side, went through the lung and lodged near the spinal cord. Pneumonia has set in, it is said.

Developments have followed fast since Grace telephoned the police to hurry a doctor to his house.

"Did your wife shoot you?" asked a policeman after breaking down the door of Grace's room and finding him on the bed.

"It begins to look that way," the wounded man replied.

Mrs. Grace was found at Newman, in this state, at the home of her mother-in-law, who accompanied her back to the city. On her arrival she was arrested and taken, on her own request, to the hospital to which her husband had been removed. Seeing him, he said:

"Daisy, you are the one who shot me."

"Why, how can you say that?" she protested, "you are trying to make me out a murderer and they will take me to jail tonight."

"You are the one who tried to kill me," Grace repeated.

"If you burst in that I will take the power of attorney which you exercise away from you," said Mrs. Grace, who was formerly the wife of a wealthy Philadelphia pulp manufacturer.

Grace then related: "I don't know who did it," he said.

There is the story told by Mrs. Grace: "I left the house at 12:15 o'clock to go to Newman, where I was to stay while Mr. Grace was in Philadelphia, for which place he planned to leave on an afternoon train. When I left him my husband was about ready to get up. I knew that he was not feeling well, but did not think he was very sick. He said he would meet me at the railroad station, but when he failed to do so, I went to Newman, thinking that he had been delayed on business. The next thing I heard was when I reached the home of his mother. They said there that Grace had been shot. My arrest and the accusation of my husband is all a horrible mistake."

daily after she had been locked up, Scott Peters of Haverhill to act as her counsel.

Mrs. Chapman has resided on Fair Oaks avenue for the past seven years. She has no children. With her husband she has saved a considerable amount of money and is regarded as the wealthiest woman in that locality.

Victim an Estimable Woman

The victim of the murder, Mrs. Ingalls, who was the wife of Charles N. P. Ingalls, was spoken of by neighbors as a most estimable woman, who had no enemy in the world until Mrs. Chapman suddenly turned against her.

For several years the women were the best of friends, and when she learned last summer that Mrs. Chapman had threatened her life, Mrs. Ingalls could not account for the sudden termination of their friendship.

That she has been in fear of Mrs. Chapman was evidenced by the last words which she spoke to her husband. As she was leaving her home, she said: "What will I do if I should meet that woman on the road?" Mrs. Ingalls has for years been devoted to her son, Jesse, who is totally blind.

Her other children are Mrs. Edward E. Pinkham of Lexington street and Mrs. Don M. Ingraham of Peabody.

After the removal of Mrs. Ingalls to the hospital and the arrest of Mrs. Chapman the police were busy seeking witnesses of the shooting. The only two eye witnesses were Raymond Teague of 233 Lyndon street and John Barrett of Lake street, West Peabody, boys about 16 years old.

They paid no attention to the women until their attention was attracted by the first shot. Thereupon they ran toward the scene of the shooting and witnessed the firing of the five shots, and followed Mrs. Chapman until she entered the Eaton home.

BILLY GARDNER,
Matchmaker Lowell S. & A. Club.

BILLY GARDNER

Has Fine Card for Lowell
S. and A. Club

Matchmaker Billy Gardner of the Lowell Social and Athletic club is meeting with remarkable success in that position. Owing to his wide knowledge of the game he is well qualified to occupy the position he holds. He is very popular with all the members of the club and also with the boxers from out of town who have occasion to appear at the club here. He has arranged many good programs for the members of the organization and this week's bill is also of a very classy order. He has signed Jimmie Gleason and Jimmie Beardon, both of this city, to appear in the opening engagement. These are very clever boys and promise to give a good account of themselves. This number will be of six rounds. Young Walsh of this city and Spider Murphy of Boston will again appear at the club on Friday night. These boys are both clever and hard hitters and each is anxious to win owing to the fact that their contest of last week was a draw. Walsh is a protegee of Jimmie Mahan and the latter is carefully training him for the match. Another number which will be furnished by two very clever boys is the second ten round contest between Johnnie Munice of Charlestown, one of the topnotchers at his weight in this section and Kid Albenas from East Boston. The latter is also very proficient with his fists and the number looks like a hummer. The final bout, which will also be of ten rounds will show Jimmie Flannigan of Cambridge and Kid Lee of Chelsea. Flannigan has been at the game some time and has met with much success. He has defeated some of the stars in this city.

JOHNNY KILBANE
NEW FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPION

JOHNNY KILBANE, NEW FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMPION

CLEVELAND, March 7.—Johnny Kilbane, the new featherweight champion, will not remain idle long. The local boy who recently relieved Abe Attell of his title will take on Jack White, the Chicago crack, within the next month or so. White has beaten and has fought two draws with Kilbane and now figures he has a chance to win the title. Kilbane is one of the most popular champions the ring has boasted of in some time. Two years ago Johnny scarcely was known outside of Cleveland. When Tom-McCarthy in 1910 started his elimination contest at Los Angeles he was a logical entrant. Kilbane decisively defeated Joe Rivers, Patsy Kline and Frankie Conley, his closest rivals, thus earning the right to meet Attell in the battle for the championship. Johnny Kilbane was born and reared in Cleveland. He will be twenty-three years old on April 18. He is married and has a baby daughter. His habits are of the best. He is a strict church member and is devoted to his family. He is the support of his blind father.

be the Washington-team's captain this year.

Perry, the outfielder whom President Navin took out of the International league by giving his Providence club three Tigers for him a few weeks ago, has signed his Detroit contract. In build Perry is an exact duplicate of Sam Crawford. He has the same type of massive shoulders and a like development of the body.

Jim McAlister's observations that ball players and not managers make winners has a second from Roger Bresnahan, who says: "If a ball player hasn't his heart in his work, if he doesn't play the game because he loves it, the best manager in the world cannot make a good player out of him."

Outfielder Clyde Milan has not yet signed a Washington contract. Neither will he until he has been at Charlottesville and had a talk with Clark Griffith. He is not quite satisfied with the terms of the contract.

Joe Wood, the crack twirler of the Boston Red Sox, has signed a straight contract this season. Last year he worked under one of those bonus agreements and didn't like it for a cent. "No more of those bonus papers for mine," he wrote Jimmy McAleer. "I want to know what I'm going to get."

and then go out and work my head off to boost it for the following season."

Manager Clark Griffith, of Washington, thinks infielder Jack Knight's arm will be all right again now that he doesn't have to play on the windswept hilltop.

Since it was officially announced that Bobby Hart would be a member of the American league umpiring staff the coming season, the former Connecticut league arbitrator has been the recipient of bouquets from many quarters. Both the former Cincinnati catcher and last year with Montreal, has a good word for Hart, cracking him up as a shifty, evenly balanced, smart official, a top-notch judge of balls and strikes and fast to get down on base-line plays.

PRESIDENT TAFT

UNABLE TO ATTEND BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET

President William H. Taft will be unable to attend the annual banquet of the Lowell Board of Trade which is to be held on March 19th, his secretary having written a letter to that effect.

The president, according to his itinerary, will pass through New Hampshire on the day of the banquet and for that reason the committee in charge felt that he might be able to come to Lowell and address the members of the board, but it appears that the president is unable to rearrange his itinerary.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Dancing Party Conducted
by Y. M. H. A.

The members of the Young Men's Hebrew association entertained a large number of their friends in Lincoln hall last evening, the occasion being the first dancing party under their auspices. The large number present demonstrated the wide popularity of the organization and the affair was a success in every particular. The hall was prettily decorated with a generous array of different colored lanterns. Streamers of pale lavender, white and yellow were suspended from the center chandelier to the balcony, where they were caught up in festoons. The outer edge of the gallery was also festooned by the bunting, and blue and white, and palms and potted plants were used on the balcony stand to make a cozy corner for the musicians.

The affair opened at 8 o'clock with an excellent concert by Minnie's orchestra. Paul Herman Finstein, violinist, a popular member of the Y. M. H. A. gave several pleasing selections. Dancing was then started and an order of 20 numbers was greatly enjoyed. The last dance before intermission was omitted and a grand march was held. The march was led by Mr. Joseph Kaplan, president of the organization, and Miss Sarah Kaplan, followed by Mr. Sigmund Rostler and Miss Jennie Rostler, and Mr. Frank J. Greenberg and Miss Rose Pearlman. In addition to the usual difficult evolutions, the participants formed the initials of the association, Y. M. H. A., during the course of the march which evoked a storm of applause from the onlookers. Other couples to take part were: Mr. Isidor H. Cohen and Miss Rose Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Goldman, Mr. Maurice Pearlman, Mr. and Mrs. Miss Hattie Pearlman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunn, Dr. and Mrs. Lamm, Mr. and Mrs. George Breith, Mr. Louis Tallen and Miss Hattie Orlik, Mr. and Mrs. George Greenberg, Mr. and Mrs. I. Quinn, Mr. J. H. Freedman and Miss Rhea Israel, Mr. Edward Rich and Miss Gussie Sakolsky, Mr. Maurice Paresky and Miss Rose Beshing, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carp, Mr. and Mrs. Max Carp, Mr. A. L. Goldberg and Miss Frances Goldman, Mr. Paul H. Finstein and Miss Edythe Finstein of Fall River, Mr. and Mrs. Lemkin, Mr. and Mrs. David Goldman, Maurice B. Harris and Miss Goldberg and others.

Following the march there was a short intermission during which refreshments were served. The committee on arrangements was composed of the following: A. S. Goldman, chairman; Frank J. Greenberg, secretary; Louis Tallen, treasurer; Joseph Baker, Maurice

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTES WILL BE PROSECUTED ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

MRS. LAWRENCE

MISS PANKHURST

LONDON, March 7.—The government has decided at last to take strong action against the militant suffragette leaders by arraigning them on a charge of conspiracy. A beginning was made when Inspector McCarthy and a large staff of detectives raided the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political union armed with warrants for the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Petrick Lawrence and Miss Christabel Pankhurst. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence were taken to the Bow Street police court, where they were formally charged with conspiracy. Meanwhile a section of the detectives took formal possession of the officers of the union and seized all the books and papers, which are now being examined. This action by the police was the result of a consultation between Prime Minister Asquith and the attorney-general. The exact line of procedure against the union has not yet been indicated, but it is assumed that it will include the attachment of the funds of the organization, which it is reported amount to $500,000.

Pearlman, George Breith, Max Shapiro; general manager, Joseph Kaplan; assistant general managers, Frank J. Greenberg, Sigmund E. Rostler, floor director, A. S. Goldman; assistant floor director, Isidor H. Cohen; chief aid, Max Goldman; aids, Arthur A. Spier, Benjamin Green, Joseph Holter, Paul H. Finstein, Max Carp, Samuel Bernstein, George Greenberg, Bennett Silverblatt, Esq., Frank Goldman, Esq., Leonard Goldman, Sol Haker, Maurice E. Harris.

The organization is in a very flourishing condition and the membership is very large. The officers and members of the association are as follows: Joseph Kaplan, president; Sigmund E. TWO OF THE HEADS OF COAL COMPANIES WHO HAVE VOTED TO REJECT
DEMANDS OF MINERS

NEW YORK, March 7.—A flat rejection of all their demands will be the answer the representatives of the miners will get from the anthracite coal operators at the conference to be held in this city on March 13. This action was decided upon at a conference of the operators here which lasted just one hour. While the action taken does not necessarily preclude further negotiations should the miners subsequently decide upon a modification of their demands, it heightens the prospects of a strike. None of the operators at the conference cared to talk for publication, but several of them privately expressed the opinion that there would be a strike in the anthracite regions. All the indications at the present time, it was said, seemed to point that way. Among the forty-four operators who attended the conference were W. H. Taylor of the St. Clair coal company and J. C. Haddock of the Plymouth Coal company.

KILLED BY A TRAIN

Edward Powers Was Run Over at Middlesex Street Depot

A fatal accident occurred last night the unfortunate young man on the platform at the Middlesex street depot, when Edward Powers, aged 21 years, living at 117 White street, was crushed to death by a Boston and freight train. Powers was a spare brakeman in the employ of the Boston & Maine and had jumped the freight in the upper yards with the intention of alighting at the depot. In his endeavor to get off with the train moving at a rapid rate, his foot got caught and he was dragged for several feet, finally falling between the cars and under the wheels. Eight cars passed over his body, and the train moved on to its destination, the crew unconscious of the accident, leaving the dead body of the young man on the platform.

A SIMPLE RECIPE FOR RHEUMATISM

The Home Prescription Which Anyone Can Prepare—Doesn't Cost Much and Relieves Many Cases—Makes the Kidneys Take Out the Poisons.

Thousands of men and women who have felt the sting and torture of this dread disease which is no respecter of age, person, sex, color or rank, will be interested to know that while for many years rheumatism was considered an incurable disease, now it is one of the easiest afflictions of the human body to conquer. Medical science has proved it not a distinct disease in itself, but a symptom caused by indigestion and inactive kidneys. Rheumatism is an acid in the blood and other waste products of the system which should be filtered and excreted out in the form of urine. The function of the kidneys is to sift these poisons and acids out and keep the blood clear and pure. The kidneys, however, are of sponge-like substance, the holes or pores of which will sometimes either from overwork, cold or exposure, become clogged and inactive, and fail in their function of eliminating these poisons from the blood. They remain in the veins, decompose and settling about the joints and muscles, cause the untold suffering and pain of rheumatism and backache, these produce complications of bladder and urinary diseases, weakness, etc.

The following simple prescription is said to relieve the worst cases of rheumatism because of its direct action upon the stomach, blood and kidneys, relieving too, the most severe forms of bladder and urinary troubles: Phyl Extract Juniper Berries, one ounce; Compound Fluid Balmwort, one ounce; Compound Syrup of Hyposphosphites, four ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses before each meal and at bed time. The ingredients can be had from any good prescription pharmacy and are absolutely harmless and safe to use at any time.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Telling a story through which runs a wide religious sentiment that is heart-touching and yet is not of the nature to bring offense, "The Rosary," the play of Edward E. Rose which proved such a big success last season,

PROF. SIMP'S STATISTICS.

IN 1910 AT THE LONDON CENTRAL MEAT MARKET IN ENGLAND 5000,000 TONS OF MEAT WERE DELIVERED — WE MENTION THIS FACT BECAUSE IT IS THE ONLY EXCUSE FOR THE HIGH PRICE OF MEAT THAT OUR BUTCHER OVERLOOKED TO SPRING ON US.!!

is repeating this year with added brilliancy. While the central figure is that of a Catholic priest, the character is so drawn that the question of sectarianism is not in any way involved. Rev. Brian Kelly is presented as a man of God, whose greatest thought is the good he can do for his fellowman of whatever creed or of no creed, and Harrington Reynolds, who fills the character, seems to have caught the author's inspiration in his conception of the role as the audiences at the Opera House will see when the production is presented tonight for 3 days. He has a keen Irish sense of humor and good will as a foil to his priestly calling, and thus is able to save the depths of a domestic tragedy and restore happiness to a home that is near destruction through the machinations of a designing villain who seeks revenge because another has won the woman he loves, and wrongly brings the loving wife into disrepute after ruining her sister, but also plots the wrecking of the fortunes of his successful rival, who believes him a steadfast friend. It is the office of the priest to unravel the tangle and restore tranquility, perfecting a moral that should be witnessed by everybody, as well as enjoyed.

JAMES K. HACKETT.

"The Grain of Dust," James K. Hackett's offering at the Opera House Saturday night, March 16, is Louis Evan Shipman's dramatization of David Graham Phillips' popular novel prepared under the advice of Mr. Hackett as to technical and other points. It has had a marvellous success so far this season, going quite beyond the previous records of the theatres it has played in Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other places. It seems to be the first time since "The Crisis" which has come near to reaching the peak of those who have read the novel, not only in its scenes and characters, but in the attractive atmosphere of the original story.

THOMAS E. SHEA

Thomas E. Shea, an actor, whose natural ability has been moulded into art in the school of experience will be seen in three plays, "A Man and His Wife," "The Bells," and "Dr. Jekyll and

THOMAS E. SHEA, in "The Bells."

Mr. Hyde. "A Man and His Wife," which will be seen at the Opera House beginning Monday, March 11, is a dramatization of Samuel Shipman's book, "The Spell." The story concerns Benjamin Clark, who passed his boyhood and youth in the Maine woods, building up a body and intellectual strength that was to shove him to success when he grappled with the city and its people. At the opening of the play we find him a banker, engaged in a fight in which he must smother or be smothered by his enemy, Reed, Clark, the banker, has married a girl, true of heart and moral of principle, but lacking in discrimination. The attentions of Reed the first receives as a matter of course, then her lack of substantial character leads her to encourage him. On the night of his first wedding anniversary Clark discovers the clandestine affair with his bitter enemy. Indignantly Clark orders Reed from the house. In retaliation Reed starts a run on the bank, which forces a dramatic act. However, the outcome of the play is not gloomy or melancholy.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

That this week's bill at Keith's has struck the popular fancy is evidenced by the great advance sale for the remaining performances. The Country Kids with their merry musical comedy present a most enjoyable and meaty act for there is a lot to it. Fred Hackett and charming little Gertrude Morgan and their seven clever assistants keep things moving while they are on. Chick Sage whose act is a headliner in itself presents a comedy novelty in his Country School Entertainment. Chick is the whole thing, teacher, pupils, school board and town constable. Hauling and hauling as he and his partners have their competitors backed off the map. Gladie and Sarcie will make you sing even if your voice is rusty for their introduction of the good old songs is irresistible. Fred Jarvis and Ivy Leighton, the fellow and girl on the bench have a neat comedy and singing act. Dan and Hatfield Haul singing with music and dancing and their music is both instrumental and vocal. Claude Miller and Virginia Zolman present an abbreviated comedy drama, "The Woman Who Dared." Whittemore's beautiful from the Mortons ranch are beautiful to behold and are highly trained. All of these and pictures constitute this week's bill.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

This week's attractions at the Merrimack Square combine in making one of the most pleasing programs for many weeks. The entire bill is especially well balanced and should meet the demands of all. The presentation of "Slings and Arrows," a bright comedy play, "Old Uncle John," by the members of our Stock Company is one of the best things put on by this popular organization. In it Kendal Weston and Miss Constance Jackson are seen to advantage and the other members of the cast, including West La Play, the Lowell boy, are all adequate. The piece is in three acts and is very well staged.

Miss Anna McMahon in "The Song Review" in which many of the latest and best song hits of the season are featured, is scoring a big success, and the Tremont Quartet, singers and entertainers, give a most entertaining act. Fritz's Educated Dogs, an animal act the equal of any of its kind on the vaudeville stage, is not the least attractive number on the program. The photo-plays and views of world-wide events for the last three days of the week, are all new and selected with the greatest care by Manager Carroll. Like those of the past they are sure to please. On Friday evening the Merrimack Square Theatre concert orchestra, Phil M. Lederman, musical director, will feature selections from the opera "Baron Trenck."

As the big attraction for the coming week the management announces the engagement for a week's run, of Prof. Carpenter, the wonderful harmonist and hypnotist, whose marvellous powers have amused and interested thousands for a generation past. Prof. Carpenter has appeared in Lowell several times in the past and has always given entire satisfaction. His first engagement in Lowell dates back more than 15 years. His latest act is new and novel and filled with features that will truly please. Don't miss seeing him.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

With the change of program at the Academy today came the Lombardian Strollers. They are real musicians and certainly know how to make their act a very neat and appropriate stage setting. This act is a winner.

LAWRENCE STRIKE HEARING

STATE OF TERROR

Described by City Missionary as Existing in Lawrence

WASHINGTON, March 7.—When investigation into the Lawrence, Mass., conditions was resumed today, Daniel J. Murphy, prosecuting attorney of Lawrence, read a telegram from Samuel C. Logan, the assistant city marshal of Lawrence, telling of the run-away of some of the strike children who were taken to New York by the committee of the socialist party.

The telegram read: "Adam Barker, 13, Peter, 11, of 21 Common street, who were brought to Arlington hall, New York, were put with a Jewish family. Made them scrub the floor. Did not like the way they were treated, ran away. Picked up by letter carrier, turned over to police and put in children's home, 23d street and 4th avenue, New York. Kept there eight days with three other Italian children. Brought back to Lawrence Feb. 28."

A petition from 1000 residents of Lawrence for a congressional inquiry into strike conditions and into manufacturing, banking, stock brokers and other conditions was submitted to the committee. The petition came to Chairman Wilson of the house labor committee and was sent by Mrs. L. M. Quinn of Lawrence.

Mrs. Taft did not attend the hearing today, but her niece, Mrs. Anderson, was present, unaccompanied.

Rev. Clark Carter, the city missionary of Lawrence, gave testimony relating to the organized movement of the churches to take care of destitute families during the strike and the troubles encountered among the strikers, especially the socialists.

He described many incidents regarding the removal of children, which the churches opposed.

"A friend of mine," he said, "overheard a conversation on the street between a woman and a little girl. 'When you go to New York put on a torn dress and leave your mittens at home. They'll take care of you over there.' It was the general impression that the people who were sending the children away wanted to excite sympathy."

Mr. Carter said that after the children were sent away parents came to him complaining and saying they wanted their children back. He tried then to find out who was responsible for the taking away of the children and could not find out.

"Neither could we find out who was responsible for the children in New York," he said. "We encountered great difficulty in locating the responsible people and discovered it to be a fact that the children had been taken, some with their parents' consent and some without, and that as far as the authorities were concerned no one knew who was responsible for them."

The missionary also described a condition of terror prevailing among the foreigners aroused by the strikers.

"All these people, particularly the women," he said, "are terror-stricken. People have been aroused from their beds at night by strike agents, who would shout, 'No work, don't go to work, kill you.' It is a fact that threats among the foreigners to blow up houses etc., has precipitated a terrorized condition among the people."

"Do I understand that people of Lawrence are in a state of terror?" asked Rep. Hardwick.

"The strike began in terrorism," Mr. Carter replied. "The people rushing through the streets in calling the strike broke down the mill gates, overpowered the watchmen, rushed through the mill, tore girls from their work and drove all the workers out. Some of the girls told me they were thrown down and others fainted.

"The people generally felt terror every day whether parties to the strike or not. People in the suburbs were afraid to go into Lawrence for days."

Rep. Foster of Illinois asked Rep. Mr. Carter about the charge for drinking water in the Lawrence mills.

"That's a social club arrangement," he said. "The regular water in the summer is too hot and in winter some of it is too near the steam pipes. So the workers form clubs to get spring water or ice. They pay so much for it and when the new employees are asked to pay they think the mill owners get the money."

"Then, the mill owners don't furnish drinkable water?" asked Mr. Foster.

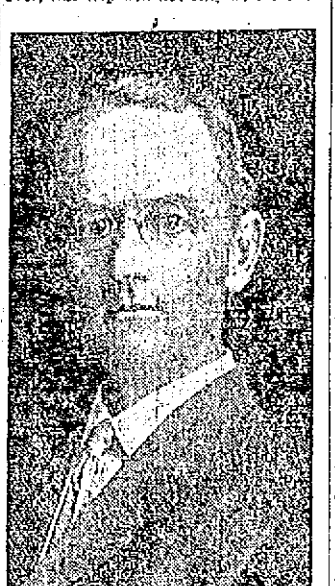

"It's the water I drink."

TO CROSS CONTINENT

Lowell Men Plan a Novel Trip on Horseback

On April first a group of seven young men, some from Lowell and the others from other places of the state will start on a two-years' trip across the continent. This may seem an April fool joke, but according to plans it is not so and the party headed by Mr. George Hobbs, the famous circus man, will cover the distance on horseback.

Mr. Hobbs, who is a Boston man, now stopping with his wife and two children at the Lyons farm in Billerica Centre, has had considerable experience in horseback riding and he claims it is the best exercise a man can take. However, this trip will not only be for exercise.

else, but also for sightseeing. Mr. Hobbs, who is an expert rider, having been years with the Buffalo Bill circus and for the past three years with the 101 Ranch, is contemplating this trip as a pleasure one and will not undertake it on a bet either. He has already picked out three of his men and will select the other three in a few days.

Those who so far have consented to undertake the journey are Mr. Harry Brock of the Old Colony Bank, Boston, and W. M. Brown of Boston, the well known artist who has gained fame with his 1000 paintings, the "Judgment of Paris."

The latter is anxious to go in order to get excellent subjects for paintings. He has already one in mind, that of two cowboys engaged in

"But it is heated by steam pipes and unfit to drink in the mill," said Mr. Foster.

"From your testimony it appears that there are two very desirable luxuries among the Lawrence strikers, one is molasses for their bread and the other is water for which they pay in the mills."

"That is a humorous way to put it," said Mr. Carter.

Mr. Carter said the mill owners of Lawrence paid his salary.

"In view of that," asked Rep. Lenora, "do you feel as free to use the fund at your disposal to aid the suffering strikers of Lawrence as you otherwise would?"

"I can say that I have permission from one of the mill owners to aid any of the needy families of strikers from his mill and to send the bill to him," said Mr. Carter.

SIXTEEN ARRESTS

Police Reserves Were Called Out in Lawrence Today

LAWRENCE, March 7.—Demonstrations in various parts of the city, the sending away of 40 children to Philadelphia and the departure of six members of the general strike committee for Boston to confer with the officials of the American Woolen Co. were developments today of the textile workers' strike. Peaceful picketing was disregarded by hundreds of strikers, who resorted to more forceful methods.

Disturbances occurred in various sections. As a result 16 persons were arrested. Because of the activity of the strikers only small gains, if any, were made in the number of operatives entering the mill gates. While on his way to the Atlantic mills Daniel O'Connell was held up by three foreigners at the corner of Jackson and Logan streets. He received a slight cut in the back of the neck. Coeur Miquale, alleged to be one of O'Connell's assailants, was arrested, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Several hundred persons gathered during the trouble but were dispersed by the police. About 400 persons gathered near the Franco-Belgian hall and became so demonstrative that a squad of police was rushed to the scene. The officers charged the crowd several times before it was dispersed. When quiet had been restored Policeman Joseph F. Tobin discovered that his coat had been cut by a knife.

Several thousand pickets walked up and down Essex street, at times yelling and hooting at the police. The strikers and their sympathizers were unusually active in this action. Operatives going to work were stopped in numerous cases and in some cases assaulted.

Several arrests were made during the trouble. Police reserves were rushed to the scene and the crowd was finally dispersed after being driven from Essex street into the Common.

THE POLICE

MADE NO ATTEMPT TO PREVENT DEPARTURE OF CHILDREN

LAWRENCE, March 7.—The police made no attempt today to prevent the departure to Philadelphia of a delegation of 40 children of striking textile operatives, although the officers held up the party at the railroad station long enough to secure the name and address of every child making the trip.

The children left the North Lawrence station soon after seven o'clock. They were accompanied by six delegates from the strike committee of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The departure of the children was the principal event of the early morning hours, although disturbances in which the pickets of the strikers figured received some police attention and twelve arrests had been made previous to eight o'clock. One of the persons taken to the police station today was a woman. All were charged with some minor offense, principally in connection with attempting to intimidate returning workers. Observers at the mill gates reported during the forenoon that there was no noticeable increase in the number of operatives returning. This indicated that the ranks of the Industrial Workers of the World remained virtually unbroken.

A crowd of about 500 persons, in addition to thirty policemen, witnessed the departure of the children. A police sergeant demanded of the strike leaders in charge of the party the name of every child in the delegation. After considerable delay the names were forthcoming and the police then left the station premises, fearing, it was explained, that their continued presence might precipitate trouble.

The youngsters boarded the little shuttle train that runs from North Lawrence to the Junction Point at South Lawrence, cheering and waving hats and handkerchiefs at their parents, many of whom were weeping unrestrainedly.

When the train reached the South Lawrence station all of the children were sent back to the North Lawrence station again in order that the addresses of the children and the name of each parent might be obtained for the benefit of the police. This information furnished in a manner satisfactory to the authorities, the

THE MILL OWNERS

EXPLAIN THEIR PLAN TO INCREASE WAGES

BOSTON, March 7.—Another conference between a committee of the Lawrence textile strikers and President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company before the special conciliation committee of the house of representatives today, while without definite result, nevertheless had some encouraging features. President Wood issued a statement explaining the increase in wages made by the company last week and the strikers announced their willingness to enter still another meeting.

Nine strikers came down from Lawrence during the forenoon and were closeted with President Wood, his counsel, Samuel L. Powers, and the members of the committee. The conference lasted three hours. At its close the strikers said that they had been promised no more than at the last meeting, nor had the mill owners been more definite in their advances toward a settlement. Nevertheless they were willing to confer again on the same matter. President Wood said:

"A readjustment of wages will be made involving increases in the rates now paid by the hour and by the piece. Such advances to be equitably adjusted according to the classes of workers and earnings and in no case to be less than five per cent; the average to be not less than 7 per cent. of the schedule in effect March 1, 1912."

HELD IN $10,000

MAN CHARGED WITH ATTEMPT TO MURDER

LAWRENCE, March 7.—Charged with assault with intent to murder, Salvatore Bruno and Prato Dublin, who are alleged to have been participants in a shooting at Common street a week ago Monday were given a hearing in the district court today. The complaint against Dublin was dismissed because of lack of evidence. In the case of Bruno witnesses testified that the defendant fired several shots at police officers. State Officer Thomas Eustace told of firing several shots at Bruno when the latter opened fire with a revolver. After a number of shots had been exchanged the police overpowered the defendant and took him to the police station. Recess was taken until two o'clock.

One new member was received into the club and the members decided to further increase the membership. After the business session was completed, Mrs. Potter, chairman of "Current Events," presided. Violin selections were given in a pleasing manner by Miss Brennan, with Miss Sargent accompanying on the piano. Reading of a very interesting article entitled "Origin of Mothers' Day," was given by Mrs. Smith. Pleading piano solos were given by Mr. Howard. A reading, "If I Were a Woman in 1912," was given by Mrs. Clin. Mrs. Dane read two enjoyable articles, the first was on "Nature and Science" and the other "Pulling Out Threads." Mrs. Hoyte read "Dr. Willcox, the Feet and Panty." At the conclusion of the entertaining program all voted it a grand success and extended a vote of thanks to the participants.

THE FINING SYSTEM

In the Fire Department Abolished by Commissioner Barrett

The fire department fine system, in vogue in the fire department for years, has been abolished by Commissioner Barrett. Hereafter when fines were imposed the money went to the fire house to which the men who were fined belonged and the money was divided amongst the men or used for the purchase of knick-knacks for the house.

The fines ranged from 50 cents to a dollar and totaled a very considerable amount at the end of the year. If a fireman failed to put in an appearance when his box sounded he was fined $1.

The World's Greatest Tonic Medicine

And Most Useful Household Remedy

Starting as a doctor's prescription twenty-odd years ago, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now on general sale in every civilized country in the world and their cures encircle the globe.

The prescription was used by the doctor in his private practice and was found to have such a wide field of usefulness that the remedy was given to the world by being placed on sale with complete directions for use written by the doctor himself. Those directions have now been translated into every written language, but the familiar registered trade mark is prominent on every package, so the purchasers may be certain they are buying the genuine, whether they buy in the city pharmacy, the corner drug store, the country store or their equivalents in foreign lands.

Great merit in the remedy is due to its ability to produce such a wonderful demand. Without an advertising could never accomplish this result. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and give energy and vitality to weak, exhausted, discouraged men and women. Their virtues are constantly spread abroad by those whom they have cured.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a "Grip" not an ordinary tonic, but one that has made many almost miraculous cures in obstinate diseases. They give just the aid required to bring back health and strength to the nervous and exhausted. They are useful in any disease caused by thin or impure blood and the list of such diseases is astonishingly large.

Anemic literally means "lack of blood" and is a condition in which the blood is thin and watery. Chlorosis, or green sickness, is a form of anemia most common in growing girls. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for these troubles.

After an attack of the grip, or of acute fever, measles, scarlet, or typhoid, the blood is thin and impure. Sometimes the after-effects are worse than the disease and years of ill health have followed a single attack of the grip. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood; the restored blood brings up the poisons and normal health follows. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the tonic to use during convalescence.

In no disease does the blood show a more rapid altering and thinning than in rheumatism. No permanent cure is possible until the blood is restored. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and enable it to cast out the rheumatic poisons with the natural secretions of the body.

Without a supply of well-oxygenated blood, good digestion is impossible. When the blood is thin and poor the food remains undigested in the stomach and ferments. Gas forms and the acids of fermentation cause heartburn. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enable the blood to absorb oxygen, it becomes rich and red and the stomach trouble disappears.

The nerves receive all their nourishment through the blood. Thin, weak blood is quickly followed by starved nerves or neuritis, or by nervous exhaustion, which is called "neurasthenia." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured so many people with exhausted nervous systems, people who had "over-driven" their fund of nervous energy, that there can be no question of their efficacy in such cases.

Some forms of paralysis are caused by thin blood and are cured when the blood is built up. The record of such cures by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is astounding enough to cause any sufferer to give the remedy serious consideration.

The progress of locomotor ataxia is stopped in many cases when the blood is made rich and red and immediately the work of repair, or re-education of the nerves, begins. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had almost miraculous success in the treatment of this disease and have given courage to doubters and unbelievers by having some very remarkable endorsements accompanied by sworn affidavits and by the testimony of disinterested witnesses.

General Debility
The cure of Mrs. A. H. Birney, of No. 36 Davis street, Greenfield, Mass., shows the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For over six months following an operation I remained in a weak and run-down condition. I was tired out all of the time and had no strength or ambition. I had weak spells when I was hardly able to get around. I became very thin and had no color."

"During this time I was at my home but became no better. My husband kindly advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began to feel better after I had used four or five boxes but kept right on for I believe in giving a medicine a good trial. In a few weeks I was in good health again. I gained in strength and weight and could sleep well. Since using the pills I have given them to my three children and they are all in good health."

Had Dizzy Spells
Mrs. Mattie Foster, of No. 155 Spring street, Auburn, Me., says:

"I was in a general run-down condition from hard work, was nervous and had dizzy spells, especially when I stopped over. I had no desire for food as it distressed me, causing gas and making me feel bloated. Also after eating I had a suffocating feeling and was so sore about my stomach that I could not bear to touch it. My heart fluttered and was worse when I went up stairs. Following the palpitation there were sharp pains about my heart and arms and I would feel sleepy after these pains. My feet and ankles would often swell to such an extent that some mornings I was unable to put on my hard row and highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as the best tonic that I ever tried."

Anaemia-Bloodlessness
Mrs. William Clark of No. 12 North Common Terrace, Lynn, Mass., urges every sufferer from anaemia to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Her great faith in them is based upon her own experience.

"Two years ago," she says, "I was so sick with anaemia that I could not walk up stairs. No one can know how I suffered. I was very pale and had severe headaches with dizzy spells. I was short of breath, my stomach was very weak, food didn't agree with me and I had but little appetite. I became discouraged with my doctor's treatment as he did not help me at all. Finally I decided that I would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began to feel better by the time I had taken a few boxes and was soon able to eat heartily. I gained in strength until my health was restored."

After-Effects of the Grip
An attack of the grip left John Luce, whose address is Box 55, R. F. D. No. 2, North Anson, Me., in a deplorable physical condition and he found no relief until he took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cured him.

"I was all run down," he says, "after a slice with the grip. My appetite left me, my stomach was weak, I was constipated, my kidneys were affected, my head ached and I felt all gone."

"A druggist recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after I had tried several different medicines without getting any relief, and the first box helped me. I took a few boxes altogether and they restored me to perfect health."

"My mother was also cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She was run down in health and strength, was nervous, could not sleep, and was so weak she could not go upstairs without assistance. Her weight fell from 110 pounds to 85. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her."

Rheumatism
Mr. Isaac Walker, of No. 88 East River street, Hyde Park, Mass., had suffered from childhood with rheumatism. It became so severe that he was obliged to give up work for a time. He then gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and was cured. He says:

"I had always suffered with rheumatism in my back and limbs and would be miserable whenever the weather was damp and wet. As I grew older the disease became more firmly seated. I think it was hereditary as my father was a great sufferer from it."

Another Cure
Mr. J. A. Jarvis, of No. 26 Chase street, Pawtucket, R. I., was cured of a severe case of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says:

"I had rheumatism for eighteen years. The fingers of my right hand were drawn out of shape and my wrist was so sore that the slightest pressure caused me intense pain. There were stinging sensations in my hands when I got up in the morning."

"My brother recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me as he had been benefited by them. After I had used them a short time I found that I was getting better and I soon became strong and able to work. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for rheumatism. They have been of such benefit to me that I would not be without them."

Stomach Trouble
Mrs. Solomon Morgan, of Millinocket, Me., tells of her cure, as follows: "A few years ago I was in a run-down condition from over work. My stomach was weak and food did not agree with me. My heart fluttered and at times there would be a choking sensation in my throat. I suffered severely from backache and could hardly straighten up in the morning. I had frequent headaches through the temples, my feet were swollen and pained me and a week seldom passed that did not find me unable to do my work. The doctor said that I needed rest and he also gave me tonics but I did not seem to get any better. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and could see a change for the better after using them only a short time. A few boxes completely cured me and I have been well ever since. My son has also taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a general run-down condition and was so greatly helped that he has had no occasion to take any medicine since."

St. Vitus' Dance
Mrs. Benson C. Lowe, whose address is R. F. D. West Paris, Me., says, regarding her cure of St. Vitus' dance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills:

"I was a very delicate child and when I was ten years of age I became afflicted with St. Vitus' dance. I was confined to bed for three or four months. My left side was paralyzed and I had no use of my arm or leg. I was helpless. My speech was affected so that I could not speak plainly and I was completely tired out by the twitching of my muscles. Visitors calling on me would unduly excite me. I had palpitation of the heart and dizzy spells."

"For a little over a year I was under a doctor's care. He pronounced my case St. Vitus' dance but did not help me. A friend advised my mother to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after a short trial I began to improve. The benefit I received was remarkable. I was restored to health and have had no nervous trouble since. I feel that I cannot say enough for this great medicine."

Nervous Debility
Mrs. Josephine Petrilly, of No. 54 Cross street, East Somerville, Mass., says:

"From overwork I became run down and for about two years suffered with nervous debility. I had but little appetite and suffered terribly with indigestion. Gas formed on my stomach and caused me intense pain. I had severe dizzy spells and at times felt despondent. My blood was impure. I could not get a good night's rest and had no ambition for anything. I was completely worn out and was so discouraged that I thought that I would never get well. I was often confined to bed for days."

"The doctor said I was suffering from nervous debility, caused by impure blood, but I got no benefit from his treatment. I had heard so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I began their use. I felt relieved after a trial of them and although my case was a stubborn one I continued to get better until cured."

If you are interested in the treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills write today for any one of the following booklets, or as many of them as you want. They are free and will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of request by letter or postal card. Send no money or stamps. They are:

PROBABLY MURDERED

Steamer Employee Has Been Missing Since February 16

BOSTON, March 7.—What it is believed may develop into one of the unsolved tragedies of modern life is the mysterious disappearance of James J. Rutherford, formerly employed on the steamer Governor Dingley, who, his brother believes, was murdered in Boston on Feb. 16.

The man's brother, Frank Rutherford, deputy city marshal of Eastport, Me., has been conducting a search here since last Monday, aided by police and detectives, but without success. No motive for the murder is known, Rutherford having worked steadily on board the Governor Dingley, according to his brother. He was well spoken of by both the officers of the steamer and those who knew him at his home in Eastport.

On Feb. 15 he received his month's pay, and the steamer arriving in Boston the following day, Rutherford was given shore leave for 24 hours.

When the Governor Dingley sailed for Maine ports, Rutherford was not aboard. His relatives, to whom word was sent at Eastport, immediately began an investigation. They discovered that Rutherford reached the wharf just after the steamer had left, but from that time all trace of him has been lost.

It was thought that he might have gone to New York to visit his sister, but inquiries by telegraph dispelled this hope. Lodging houses were searched and hospitals visited, but without result, until his brother was forced to the conclusion that he had met with foul play.

WOMAN MURDERED

Mrs. Eva F. Ingalls Was Slain by Her Former Friend

LYNN, March 7.—With a heavy police revolver, which mysteriously disappeared from an officer's home more than a year ago, Mrs. Jesse Chapman, aged 44, of 30 Fair Oaks avenue, last night shot and almost instantly killed Mrs. Eva Florence Ingalls, aged 57, of 28 Fair Oaks avenue, whose life she has repeatedly threatened since she terminated their friendship last summer.

The shooting occurred on Lynnfield street, about 100 feet from Fair Oaks avenue. Mrs. Chapman was walking toward her home, while Mrs. Ingalls was hurrying along intent upon catching an electric car at the terminus of the Lynn Woods line. When the women met Mrs. Chapman drew the 35-caliber revolver and, pressing the muzzle against the abdomen of Mrs. Ingalls, pulled the trigger.

Mrs. Ingalls dropped to the sidewalk and started to roll toward the gutter. Mrs. Chapman, standing over her, fired five times in quick succession, until the chambers of the weapon were emptied. A few minutes later she entered the house of George R. Eaton, at the corner of Fair Oaks avenue, and, clutching the handle in which she had replaced the revolver, said to Mrs. Eaton, "You haven't any idea, I'm waiting for the authorities."

She was subsequently arrested by Patrolmen John T. Curry and John Clark, and was locked up at the State street station, charged with murder.

Temporary insanity, attributable to an affliction from which Mrs. Chapman has been suffering for more than a year, is assigned by police and neighbors as the real cause of the crime.

Had Threatened a Policeman
For months her actions have been of such a character as to lead neighbors to conclude that she was a dangerous woman, and several women on Fair Oaks avenue confessed last night that they have been afraid of her for some time.

When it became known recently that Mrs. Chapman had threatened to shoot Frank A. Burrill, a retired Lynn policeman, with whom she had been very friendly for seven years, the neighbors became more firmly convinced that she was insane and that she would do harm to some one.

The killing of Mrs. Ingalls did not create as much surprise in the neighborhood as a murder generally does, for friends of both women, appreciating the cause of the crime, were outspoken in their expressions of sympathy for the husband of Mrs. Chapman and for the family of Mrs. Ingalls.

An investigation last night disclosed that Mrs. Chapman had been away during the afternoon and that she took the 5:30 car from Central square for Lynn Woods. She arrived at the terminus at 5:50 and started to walk along Lynnfield street toward Fair Oaks ave.

She carried the heavy revolver which she had taken from the home of a policeman, who had been shot by Mrs. Chapman or had been stolen from the home of Patrolman Burrill, who missed the weapon a year ago. It was a woman made especially for the use of policemen, and bore the stamp and number of the Lynn department.

At what is known as Hacker's driveway, a road leading from a hill back of Fair Oaks ave. to Lynnfield street, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Ingalls met. The latter had left her home about 5 o'clock to walk to the terminus of the street car line, and it was purely accidental that she met Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Ingalls Dies in Ambulance
What then occurred was described in the following words by Mrs. Chapman, when Patrolman Curry was questioning her: "That woman ruined my life. I loved her first, but she was not mistaken. I loved her and she loved me. I was an interval of several years between the first and the second shots, but that the last four shots were in such rapid succession that they were fired as quickly as Mrs. Chapman could pull the trigger."

While Mrs. Ingalls was dying upon the sidewalk, Mrs. Chapman walked slowly along Lynnfield street until she reached the corner of Fair Oaks avenue. Just as she turned the corner, Mrs. Eaton, aged 57, of 28 Fair Oaks avenue, who had heard the shots and who looked from her window as the last three were fired, cried out to Mrs. Eaton, across the street, that a man had been killed.

Upon hearing Mrs. Eaton's words, Mrs. Chapman turned around on Fair Oaks avenue and ran back and into the Eaton home. There she sat down in the parlor and said, "I had to do it. You haven't any idea." She was not greatly excited, and after a few moments she told Mrs. Eaton that she wanted the police to take her.

A telephone message brought an automobile ambulance from Sutton street, and while Officer Curry placed Mrs. Chapman under arrest the body of Mrs. Ingalls, with just a spark of life discernible, was hurriedly placed in the ambulance and a quick trip was made to the Lynn hospital. When the surgeons examined the body she was dead.

Police Find Revolver
While waiting for the return of the ambulance, Officer Curry took the hand-bag which Mrs. Chapman clung to, and upon opening it discovered the revolver. Mrs. Chapman made but little talk with the police and when Inspector Burckes, who assumed charge of the case, tried to get her to admit that she had killed Mrs. Ingalls, she refused to repeat the statements which she had made to Mrs. Eaton and to Officer Curry.

Her husband, Oliver S. Chapman, learned of the arrest of his wife before she had been removed from the Eaton home and he tried to call her, although she was not in a very excited frame of mind. He accompanied her to the Sutton-street station and immediately after she had been locked up he engaged Ex-Dist. Atty. W. Scott Rogers of Haverhill to act as her counsel.

Mrs. Chapman has resided on Fair Oaks avenue for the past seven years. She has no children. With her husband she has saved a considerable amount of money and is regarded as the wealthiest woman in that locality.

Victim an Estimable Woman
The victim of the murder, Mrs. Ingalls, who was the wife of Charles N. P. Ingalls, was spoken of by neighbors as a most estimable woman, who had no enemy in the world until Mrs. Chapman suddenly turned against her.

For several years the women were the best of friends, and when she learned last summer that Mrs. Chapman had threatened her life, Mrs. Ingalls could not account for the sudden termination of their friendship.

That she has been in fear of Mrs. Chapman was evidenced by the last words which she spoke to her husband. As she was leaving her home, she said, "What will I do if I should meet that woman on the road?" Mrs. Ingalls has for years been devoted to her son, Jesse, who is totally blind, and her other children are Mrs. Edward E. Pinkham of Lexington street and Mrs. Dan M. Ingraham of Peabody.

After the removal of Mrs. Ingalls to the hospital and the arrest of Mrs. Chapman the police were busy seeking witnesses of the shooting. The only one who was seen was a teaming man, George of 233 Lynnfield street, and John Burnett of Lake street, West Peabody, boys about 15 years old.

They paid no attention to the women until their attention was attracted by the first shot. Thereupon they ran toward the scene of the shooting and witnessed the firing of the five shots, and followed Mrs. Chapman until she entered the Eaton home.

ATLANTA, March 7.—"God knows I am innocent," exclaimed Mrs. Daisy Ullrich, one Grace yesterday, after her release on bail pending a hearing on the charge of assault with a attempt to murder her young husband, Eugene H. Grace, a building contractor, who was mysteriously shot at their handsome 11th street home yesterday.

Physicians said that Grace has but slight chance for recovery. The bullet penetrated the left side, went through the lung and lodged near the spinal cord. Dr. Pennington has said, it is said, that Grace would not survive.

Developments have followed fast since Grace telephoned the police to hurry a doctor to his house. "Did your wife shoot you?" asked a policeman after breaking down the door of Grace's room and finding him on the bed.

"I began to look that way," the wounded man replied. Mrs. Grace was found at Newman. In this state, at the home of her mother-in-law, who accompanied her back to the city. On her arrival she was arrested and taken, on her own request, to the hospital to which her husband had been removed. Seeing her, he said:

"That's you are the one who shot me." "Why, how can you say that?" she protested, "you are trying to make me out a murderer and they will take me to jail tonight."

"You are the one who tried to kill me," Grace replied. "If you persist in that I will take the power of attorney which you exercise away from you," said Mrs. Grace, who was formerly the wife of a wealthy Philadelphia pulp manufacturer.

Grace then related, "I don't know who did it," she said. Here is the story told by Mrs. Grace: "I left the house at 12:15 o'clock to go to Newman, where I was to stay while Mr. Grace was in Philadelphia, for which place he planned to leave on an afternoon train. When I left, my husband was about ready to get up. I knew that he was not feeling well, but did not think he was very sick. He said he would meet me at the railroad station, but when he failed to do so, I went to Newman, thinking that he had been detained on business. The next thing I heard was when I reached the home of his mother. They said there that Gene had been shot. My arrest and the accusations of my husband is all a horrible misadventure."

Grace told the police when they first reached him that he first discovered he was shot at 6 o'clock in the morning when he awoke with a burning sensation in his side. "I told my wife," he said, "and asked her to get a doctor. She left the room and came back later, saying she was unable to reach one over the telephone." Grace says then he became unconscious and when he next awoke he made his way to the telephone and called the police.

Much importance is attached by the police to the corroborative testimony of J. C. Huffman and his wife, negro servants. "The woman who shot me made fire in Grace's room about 7 o'clock at night," Mrs. Huffman said. While she was in the room she says Grace groaned several times and Mrs. Grace said: "You are not sick Gene. You are sleeping."

Ruffin says Mrs. Grace told him as she was leaving the house that she had wanted a doctor, but had changed his mind and if the doctor came he was to be sent away. Mrs. Grace denies giving any such instructions.

A revolver was found on a window sill in the hall on the floor below the room.

THE LOWELL CEMETERY

Annual Report of Proprietors an Interesting Document

At the annual meeting of the proprietors of the Lowell cemetery held last night at the rooms of the Mid-dlesex Safe Deposit & Trust Co., the following were elected trustees for three years: Asa C. Russell, William S. Southworth, Solon W. Stevens and Walter Coburn. In the absence of Hon. C. S. Little, the president, Hon. Frederick A. Fisher, presided. The report of the trustees, including the business figures of the year as taken from the treasurer's report, is in part, as follows:

"The sweet remembrance of the just, Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust."

The labor entailed with the making and composing of the annual report, the accounting of your chosen trustees for their year of cemetery work, seems to be easier to accomplish, as year after year, the one accustomed to do this work adds one more to the long list of the annual returns. We have completed the seventeenth year of corporate existence. The cemetery, once well beyond the districts of local habitation and business life, is now seemingly but a few moments from our homes. There are those connected with your corporation who have served you a quarter of a century and more. They have witnessed remarkable physical changes. They are able to recall to memory hundreds and hundreds of the good, the just, that have been tenderly consigned to earth in our cemetery; your dear ones among the number, dear ones that we all loved, so dear that the remembrance is almost too dear to be remembered. They will always flourish till we, too, sleep in dust. It is that sweet memory that lingers and serves to lighten the task of the trustee and everyone of us who labors for the corporation. It is that sweet memory that holds the love, the interest and the loyalty of all in any way concerned with our cemetery. You, even to the casual visitor, who journeys our avenues in search of the buried dead, that covers all that is left behind. The soul makes its solitary flight to the solitary God, but the body is left behind, still with the benefit, though it be in the grave.

We may then be perfectly understood when we say that with these memories in mind, our task becomes a pleasant duty. May others soon to follow perform their duty with the same conscientious and generous spirit, and may the record we shall leave serve to stir others to equal endeavor. We beg then to submit the seventh annual report of business of the Lowell cemetery. Our good former president, Hon. Charles A. Stoll, found that it was imperative that he should relinquish the office at the beginning of the year. Upon President Stoll's retirement, Hon. Charles S. Little was unanimously chosen to the position. Mr. Stoll being prevailed upon to continue in service upon the board of trustees. We do come to you, however, at this time with one absent, one who had served as trustee a number of years. We refer to the late Ethan A. Smith. Mr. Smith's business life in Lowell has been such water. It has marked him one of the city's most prominent and active men. His death was a distinct loss to the city, and to all the many business interests of which he had been a part. This corporation places upon its records the following tribute to its late trustee:

Died in Lowell, Mass., June 2nd, 1911, Ethan Allen Smith, a member of the board of trustees of Lowell cemetery, having served in such capacity continuously since March, 1892.

"Friend after friend departs— Who hath not lost a friend?" Friendships are formed in the directing bodies of business institutions that are life-lasting. In our own circle we well know how dear to us are the members of our fellow trustees who have gone from us. We shall remember Mr. Smith for his uprightness, his courage in facing perplexing business problems, his loyalty to any cause in which he had joined. His loyalty and interest in the Lowell cemetery was never wanting. The city of Lowell and its citizens have lost one of their strongest men. That loss must be shared by the proprietors of the Lowell Cemetery.

We have already referred to our years of existence as a corporation. During all these years we have worked under practically the same by-laws. It will be easy for you to understand that with all these years and with amendments made from time to time, these same by-laws are in condition permissible of improvement. Your board of trustees has through a special committee devoted considerable time to a complete revising and codification. The result of the committee's work will be called to your attention in this annual meeting and your trustees will, and do, recommend that, following examination, you approve and vote to adopt this submittal of new by-laws. The aim of the revising is to bring the governing rules to a concise fit to what seems to be desired in practical conduct of cemetery business of today.

The business figures of the year we take from the full report of the treasurer, briefly:

We negotiated temporary loans during the year amounting to $1750. These loans have all been paid, and also $600 on standing indebtedness of the corporation. The sale of new lots amounted to $2,725.33, which is more than previous year and quite satisfactory. New perpetual care fund amounting to $6046.05 was received, almost double that of previous year and bringing the total of care fund principal held by the corporation in trust to over $150,000, which, with unused interest on deposit with this principal, makes total of $163,591.55, a gain in the year of $7042.13. The reserved fund was strengthened by its earnings of the year $448.57, making total of $120,688.22, the estimate being dependable assuming the charges on our books to lot owners are collectable. We may say that this fund has history the item called bar bits has been even smaller, small in amount, but number of burials during year 133.

Pay rolls and salaries account for year just closed amounts to $543.11, as against $7820.50. We mention you herewith recapitulation of these expenditures showing two years:

We may say that our employees, some of these men with us for many years, petitioned the trustees for an advance in wages and also for a re-adjustment of the hours of labor. This petition was carefully considered and most of hours, was as well as re-adjustment of pay schedules accounts for the increased expenditure.

Your trustees have carefully investigated the hot house department as to our being warranted in continuance of this expense. It has been suggested that it would be profitable if we were to propagate through the cold months. It has seemed to our trustees that so long as our present hot house outfit will stand up to present capacity and yield, we are warranted in its continuance as in the past. It easily pays for itself, in fact is a source of profit, not to speak of the general beauty it provides in general decoration apart from that is necessary.

Ida D.: You can't be too careful about the shampoo you use. Soap and powders should never be used on the scalp. To properly cleanse your hair and scalp without any danger of injury to the hair you will find nothing so equal to a cup of hot water. Your hair will rinse easily, dry quickly, without streaking or brittleness, and take on added lustre and fluffiness that will last. No shampoo is so effective in removing dandruff, scalp irritation and promoting hair-health by keeping the scalp perfectly clean.

Mrs. S. M.: Your complexion is shiny from the use of greasy cold cream. If you will mix an ounce of salicylic acid and 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine in 1/2 pint cold water, and use this greaseless beauty cream night and morning, you will not be bothered with a muddy, greasy complexion. It will make your skin ever so soft, smooth and beautiful. It clears and refines the skin as no other cream I have ever used will, and is a sure preventive against chapping, blackheads and enlarged pores.

C. W. R.: Oils, vasoline and most of the so-called "hair tonic" will never help your hair and scalp troubles. The best remedy for ridding your scalp of dandruff, itching and making your hair from coming out is made by mixing together 1 ounce quinine, 1/2 pint alcohol and 1/2 pint cold water. This dependable remedy will not make your hair oily or stringy, but will make it soft and glossy. Used twice a week it keeps the scalp in a healthy condition and promotes a vigorous growth done by individual lot owners. We believe the results would not be as satisfactory always if we purchased our stock annually of outside growers. But our lot house of wood construction cannot stand many years. What shall we do then? If we build anew, our construction should be of concrete and steel. It is one of our hill climbs of the future. Perhaps when the time comes there will be a way found. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

Among the care funds which reached the treasurer during 1911 was a bequest of $1000 by the will of the late Susan Brown. "The income thereof to be expended for the perpetual care and maintenance of my husband's (Francis Brown) lot in said cemetery." * * * (The remainder of the income or interest accruing from said sum, if any there be, to be expended annually as the board of said trustees of said cemetery may determine in improving the lots in said cemetery that have been neglected by unknown owners thereof.)

In meeting of board of trustees of September 25th, 1911, "it was voted to accept the gift under terms of will and expressions of appreciation were given by trustees present in regard to the thoughtful and kindly gift of the late Susan Brown. It was thought fitting that publicity be given the good lady's act."

As in the case of the Zina E. Stone care fund of $3000, after applying income for specified uses, it is directed that each year any balance of income shall be expended upon neglected lots. It was a kind heart in both cases that prompted this doing good to others who in life perhaps were less fortunate than they. It is amazing the amount of repair work that has been accomplished through the provision of the Stone fund. The same will be true of the Brown fund. These two funds will eventually restore all neglected lots in cases where owners are unknown. In cases of neglect and where owners are living and know of condition, these incomes are not permitted to do us no harm. The many observe the proprietors of the place. The exception is the few. It is well not to exaggerate the evil. Aside from the vandalism concerned with the Hallowell entrance and the theft of flowers, we know of no specific cases of disorder during the last year. The evil-doers are the few. We recognize this. For this reason we continue to extend welcome to all orderly and law-abiding people who choose to walk our avenues in summer or winter. Its quiet, its beauty, its comfort, its peace, is for all good men, women or children without distinction. Within our gates, all are equal—living or dead; it should be so; and this feeling, this atmosphere, should be its strongest protection. Is this not true? If such feeling prevails, does it not tend to surer protection than fences of iron or walls of stone?

You will recall that the corporation is owner of the strip of land between Lawrence street and the Concord river, on the south end of which are cemetery dwelling house and stables. Your trustees are considering the proposition of moving these buildings across the street to some location within the cemetery enclosure, this with view of leading up to improvement of street conditions in Lawrence street and fronting the cemetery. If the city government, with the Boston & Maine Railroad Co., would co-operate with us, a decided public improvement could be effected. It is with a view of what may develop in this direction that you are asked at this annual meeting to vote your trustees the general authority to sell or give land that might be desirable as well as necessary, should matters develop to a point of execution during the year 1912.

A year ago the project of building a new public street from a point near the overhead railroad bridge, through or near our present hothouse property, continuing through land known as the Wiggins land, with outlet into Shedd park, was discussed. Citizens did present a petition to the city government of last year. The matter was referred and took its regular course of inquiry. Whatever warmth was developed in the project cooled, so that eventually little progress was made. The chief obstacle appears to have been the matter of terminus. If constructed, the street would end in a pocket, as existing restrictions prevent a street such as proposed entering the park. It appears to be no part of the park scheme to have its thoroughfares put to business traffic use. Our own interest in this street was by its establishment to relieve ourselves of threatened invasion and damage by the general public overrunning our property in an attempt to reach Shedd recreation park. Our experience the present winter has shown us that the great majority of our people and their children mean to hold the annual caucus in the town hall at the centre.

Miss Lowell of the state Normal school gave an interesting talk on Dickens to the members of the Literary union, Tuesday evening, and her remarks were listened to with close attention. The regular monthly social and entertainment of the Unitarian society was held in the church vestry last evening. The attendance was very large and the evening's program was well enjoyed. The latter was one of the best that was ever given at the church and all numbers were loudly applauded. Supper was served by Mrs. Warren assisted by Mrs. J. B. Emerson, Mrs. E. W. Sweetser, Mrs. C. E. Parkhurst, with Hosmer W. Sweetser, Alvin H. Fletcher and the husbands of the supper committee as waiters. The entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. Curtis J. Holt, assisted by Mrs. Edgar F. Parkhurst, Mrs. Charles E. Parkhurst.

ORDER OF MOOSE

HALL LAST EVENING

The Lowell lodge of Moose, No. 618, held its regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall last evening. There was a large attendance and much enthusiasm. Twenty applications were received and ten candidates initiated into the "defending circle." Various committee reports were submitted, the most important being that of the by-law committee. Under roof of the order George H. Crowell told of meetings he had attended in Lawrence and Haverhill. Haverhill lodge has been organized only two months and the membership at the present time is over 600. Lawrence lodge is initiating every meeting. Lowell lodge has a membership of about 350, and is growing at the rate of forty a month. Last evening plans were laid over for a degree team, and it is hoped very soon to have it in full operation.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Rose: To rid your skin of that gray, greasy, yellow look and make it shiny, gleaming and youthful, you can use nothing better than a lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces spermacin in 1/2 pint which has been such water. This lotion will clear and whiten your skin, make it smooth and velvety, and give you a little, will not show on the skin like powder does, and when you wear a veil, will not rub off so easily. This is really a wonderful complexion beautifier, and one which every woman should use.

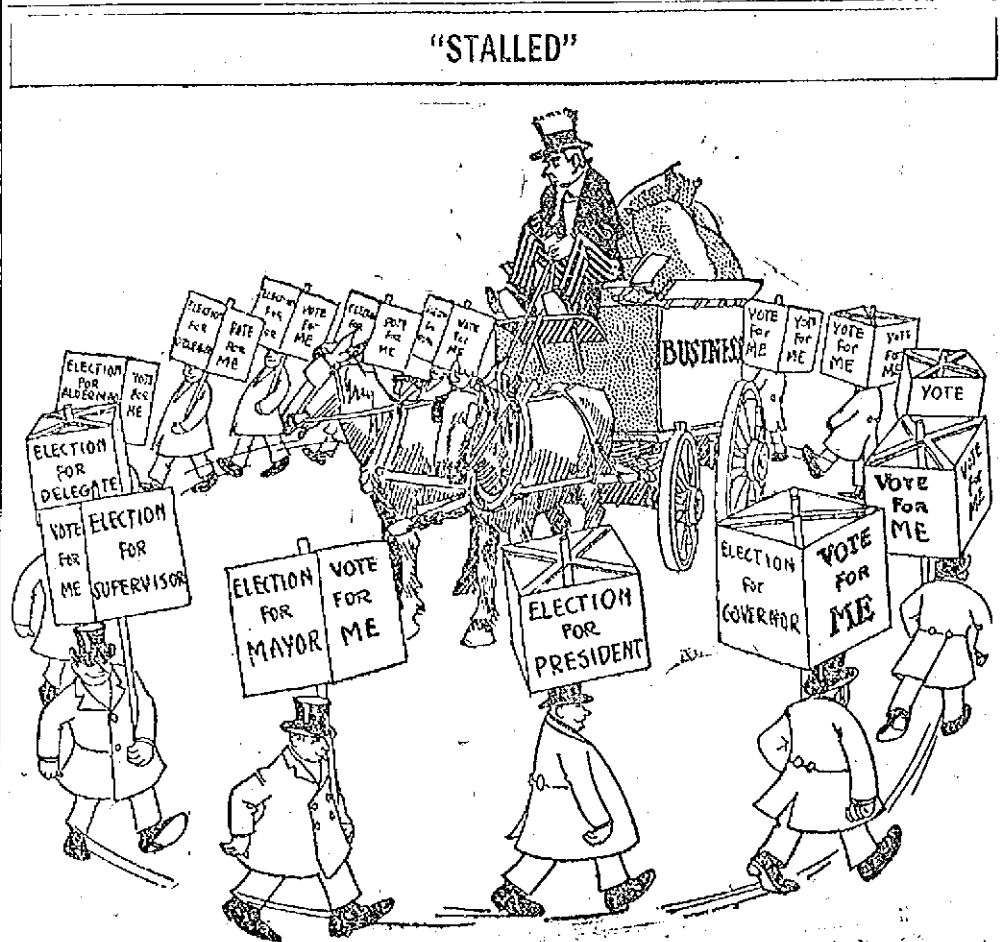

Blanches and sallowness. After taking a few doses you will note a big improvement in the condition of your health. It is a great energizer and health restorer.

Mrs. T. A.: I do not think it necessary for you to consult a physician about your weight. You can easily remove your bulk by using a small quantity of dissolving 4 ounces of spermacin in 1/2 pint hot water and taking a teaspoonful before meals. This splendid fat-reducer is very safe to take and will not injure your health. It will leave your skin free from wrinkles and flabbiness. No dieting is necessary.

Ida D.: You can't be too careful about the shampoo you use. Soap and powders should never be used on the scalp. To properly cleanse your hair and scalp without any danger of injury to the hair you will find nothing so equal to a cup of hot water. TO INCREASE THE TAX LIMIT

The city of Fall River is in a bad financial plight in the matter of making its available revenue meet its current expenditure. Two methods are suggested for a solution of the difficulty. One is to increase the legal tax limit on the valuation now fixed by law at $12 per $1000 or else boost the valuation of real estate now assessed for its fair market value. Neither of these, it seems to us, would be as good as the economic policy that would restrict expenditures in the departments to the available revenue. There is a bill before the legislature to increase the tax limit from $12 to $14 on each $1000 of assessed property in cities and towns. This bill if enacted would give the departments more money which would doubtless be spent as readily as the smaller amount is now, and there might not be much more to show for the higher expenditure than under the old system. It is not likely that this bill will be favored by the legislature.

Every city in the state except those that avoid all extravagance and practice strict economy is more or less in the same predicament as is Fall River. Lowell has had to borrow to meet current expenses and may have to do so again this year. A temporary floating debt of over $500,000 against which there are assets of perhaps $350,000 in uncollected taxes is at present a stumbling block, but the prompt collection of the back taxes may help to clear off this unpleasant cloud on the financial horizon.

GOOD FOR MR. POLLARD

Good for Mr. A. G. Pollard! He says if he goes to the republican convention he wants to be pledged for Taft as no condition would he vote for "that man Roosevelt." We democrats have no voice in the republican convention, but we surmise that there will be a sufficient number of sensible republicans like A. G. Pollard to give Roosevelt his quietus. If it should happen that this nation is to be so unfortunate as to elect another republican president we do not believe there is an honest democrat in the land who would not prefer Mr. Taft to that turbulent populist demagogue who goes about with a chip on his shoulder all the time looking for trouble. Roosevelt and his egotistic policies have already cost this country nearly as much as did the Civil war, and to select him for a third term as president would simply be to put anarchy on horseback. As president of the Annals club Mr. Roosevelt deserves all the honor attached to the position, but as candidate for president of this republic he is the very antithesis of all that is desirable in the candidate who if elected can restore public confidence and overcome the widespread discontent that prevails throughout the country today.

UNITY FOR LABOR UNIONS

If labor unions hope to accomplish anything they must unite their forces for a common purpose instead of fighting one another. The situation in the Lawrence strike presents an aspect that has rarely been seen in any former strike. The strikers are divided in their allegiance between two organizations that are in open conflict. One section is willing to accept the proffered concessions, the other is not. Thus their cause is weakened and united action is made impossible. Of course the legitimate labor union cannot afford to make common cause with socialists or anarchists. That may be at the bottom of the split in the city of Lawrence, and if so the unions that stand for a legitimate and conservative policy should be sustained. The men who want the wage system abolished and the wealth of the land divided up equally are revolutionists who cannot safely be followed by any labor organization.

CARDINAL GIBBONS' VIEWS

Cardinal Gibbons takes a sound position on most public questions. What he says on any question is well worth careful study for he never takes a stand for or against any movement without the most careful study. When he becomes convinced by cumulative proofs that he is right, then and not till then does he give his views to the public. The utterances of such a careful student of history, of men and measures, must always be respected as reflecting the true spirit of patriotism and upholding in the main the best policies for adoption by state and nation.

EXEMPTION FROM PENSION ACTS

A bill now before the legislature provides for the exemption of Fall River from the existing pension laws until they shall have been accepted by the voters of the city. It would not do any harm to have such a bill apply to all the cities of the state. Had the pension law been submitted to the people it might not have been adopted. With the experience we have had, if it were now submitted it would be overwhelmingly rejected. It is wrong to give any city council the power to saddle such a law upon the city for all time.

The experience of Fitchburg shows that it is a serious matter to expel a pupil from school. The school board must be ready to give a satisfactory reason or else the city will be liable for damages. In Fitchburg a girl was expelled because she refused to serve as police officer in a form of municipal government conducted in the school. This being a matter somewhat outside the regular course of school duties, it is doubtful if the task can be made compulsory. But this point was not passed upon by the courts, the verdict for $1150 damages being awarded because the school board after being requested in writing failed to give reasons for the girl's expulsion.

The opinion of City Solicitor Hennessy upon the police pension law shows that the legislature alone has power to change the act. It might now be in order for the municipal board to secure the solicitor's opinion as to the legality of the methods by which Supt. Moffatt secured his pension.

SEEN AND HEARD

In a recent number of a Sunday paper magazine Mr. George Cohen, the playwright, described the physical conditions, that is, height, weight, complexion, etc., necessary for a correct portrayal of traditional stage characters. After having read this entertaining article we have come to the conclusion that these traditional stage characters are a truthful representation of the same persons in real life. Slender people, as compared with those who are stout, would in general be good and persons of a brunette complexion, as compared with those of the blonde type, would be bad. Moreover, slender persons are, on the stage at least, individuals of refinement, while the men or women to whom nature has given a dark skin are inclined to coarseness.

For instance, the traditional stage hero, that gentleman endowed with so many engaging qualities, is tall and slim; the heroine upon whom is centered the admiring glances of all the every-day heroes watching her from the orchestra and balconies, is slight and slim; the detestable, such as a little bundle of effervescence, is short and stout; the congressman, a valiant defender of the rights of the "people," is tall and stout; the lawyer, representing an ultra-honorable profession, is tall and stout; and the southerner, always a scoundrel while sober, is "disheveled," a gallant cavalier, is tall and stout.

On the other hand, the villain (c-u-r-s-e-s), he with the sinister designs against the slim young heroine, is stout and dark; the adventurer, that female person with the metallic laugh, is a bundle of brunettes; the banker, always a stony hearted individual, is stout; the senator, about whom there hangs a suspicion of corruption pickings, is stout; and the butler, that discreet lackey who knows just when to turn his back, is stout, decidedly stout.

According to Mr. Cohen, there is a sound reason underlying this manifest physical distinction which on the stage distinguishes the good from the bad. It is this. In the majority of cases American men are tall and somewhat slim and, as they are usually the most numerous members of their sex in the audience, it follows that the theatrical manager realizes that it is to his advantage to please the predominant type of men by selecting one of their own physical proportions to enact the role of the hero. The same principle holds in the selection of the remainder of the cast. Thus, the majority of the audience; that is, the plan.

But in regard to the heroine we cannot understand, in view of the generally equal assortment of light complexioned and dark complexioned girls, why a young woman with nature has so beautifully endowed with glowing brown tresses and with rosy cheeks to set these off should not be considered entirely eligible to fill the part of the leading woman. Why, then, restrict this role to a girl of blonde complexion? Why insist on placing our amiable little brunettes in the undesirable role of adventurers? Surely it is high time for these abused young women here in Lowell to rise in their wrath and on this phase of the matter, demand a reformation of the drama. As an initial step we suggest that they enlist Manager Ward of the Opera House in the cause and that, with his gallant assistance, institute a house-wide campaign to remove this reflection on the worthiness of the American brunettes.

It is not good form to rehearse your domestic difficulties in public, but it is highly interesting to your auditors.

Isn't it a bit too early to begin operations looking to the making of a good farm garden this year? The first thing to do is to go out and measure the plot; be accurate about it; take the good woman of the house along to hold one end of the tape; it is better to get her interested now, for you will need her help by and by. The chances are that she already knows more about what a good garden should be like than you will ever know.

THE YARN OF THE TIDAL WAVE, ETC.

(Paul West, in the N. Y. World.)

"Twas on the rocks that stretch along The Political Ocean's side, That, shaken with fear and bathed in tears,

A horrible sight I spied. Its tail was dragged, its eyes were bunged,

And dragged and bunged was it, And I heard it cry with a choking sigh,

As it flung a convulsion fit: "O, I am a Popular Tidal Wave,

And the cry of a World-Wide Need, And a Wild Acclaim and a Land Admire,

And a Rush and a Grand Stampede, And a Clamor Shout and a Deep Appeal,

And a Rush that Staggers the Land, And a Duty Clear and a Howling Cheer,

And a Loud Third-Term Demand!"

Then it beat its breast and it gasped In pain, its head it raised,

For the way it was groping gave symptoms of dawning,

And so it simply said, "I know Of political ways, that's true,

But tell me, pray, if you're all you say, Whatever's occurred to you?"

Then it said: "Ah, me, I started, you see, From a place called Oyster Bay,

Wherever I sped, I'd be welcome, they said, And I met with a glad hour;

But wherever I've gone I've been trampled on, The people have howled and laughed,

And the last of my woes, I've been punished on the nose, By the boom of a chap called Taft.

So I'm only a wreck, with a load on my neck, And I fear that I've lost my way,

And I'm full of dope and I've lost all hope, But still I love to say:

"O, I am a Popular Tidal Wave, And the cry of a World-Wide Need,

And a Wild Acclaim and a Land Admire, And a Rush and a Grand Stampede,

And a Clamor Shout and a Deep Appeal, And a Rush that Staggers the Land,

And a Duty Clear and a Howling Cheer, And a Loud Third-Term Demand!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

T. Russell Sullivan, whose Boston novel, "The Heart of Us," has just been published, has been thoroughly identified with his home city. For years he was in the banking business, but since 1888 has devoted himself to literature. Among his books are "Day and Night Stories" and "Lands of Summer." His one-act play, "A Cigarette from Java," is still popular, and the adaptation, Stevenson's "Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which he made for Richard Mansfield was the best of the various dramatic versions of that powerful story. "The Heart of Us," readers will easily recognize several famous people. Under the cognomen of "Adam Lavoisier," the popular comedian, William Warren of Boston, whose occasional appearances, bearing the "half-man" of his own unrivaled Peter Teazle," Amelia Fisher, who kept the famous boarding-house in Bulfinch place, where William Warren lived, plays a prominent role under the title of "Kitty Cole" and her character is a rendezvous for the characters of the tale. Another famous Bostonian who comes occasionally upon the scene, but is not intimately connected with the story, is Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes—a "trim figure of an elderly man, short, slender, erect, and sprightly dressed," with footstep still light and alert, and with a merry twinkle in his eye.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

St. Paul Pioneer-Press: Recently there has been much discussion in educational circles of the need of men teachers in the higher grades, and some effort has been made to attract them to the work, without any appreciable results. There must be something about the calling of the teacher—either its pecuniary rewards or its range of opportunities—that is inadequate to attract and hold men who might take up this calling as a life work. The average man teacher uses his position as a makeshift, a stepping stone and means of livelihood while he studies for the law, the medicine or some other profession. Usually the man teacher leaves at the earliest opportunity for more flattering and lucrative fields of endeavor. It would seem that teaching would be most enjoyable work for the student of books and of human nature, but the fact remains that men as a rule do not regard it. It must be admitted that the profession of teaching does not hold the financial attractions to men that are offered in other professions. The years of preparation necessary, the investment in books and other expenses make a severe drain on the teacher's income, which is small at best. If it is true that there is a real demand for more men teachers, the chances are that the demand will be supplied when the compensation is made commensurate with the service rendered.

PUBLICATION AND CRIME

Boston Globe: In sentencing a man to a long term in the penitentiary who had been convicted on charges made by a young girl, a New Jersey judge the other day was outspoken in his belief that such offenses should receive publicity. He said that "it seems to be known of the character of these cases by the general public, probably, as they are mentioned in the newspapers as 'statutory offenses.' It will probably serve public interests a great deal better to have the facts of this nature spread broadcast." Newspapers are often blamed for giving too much prominence to crime and criminals. Here, however, is a judge who blames the press for being too good. An intricate problem in psychology is involved. Is crime lessened by keeping all knowledge of it from the public as far as possible? Does the tendency to deter crime? Or does the publication of the details of a particular atrocious deed promote crime by suggestion?

Whatever the answer, the New Jersey judge seems to hold that publicity helps more than it hinders.

GOING TO EXTREMES

New Bedford Times: The policy of Lawrence mill managers to encourage the employment of "cheap" help, which at this distance seems to have been indulged in to greater extent in that city than in any other textile centre in New England, seems contrary to the logic of industrial economy. The prevalence of "fining" indicates that the work of the operatives was of an unsatisfactory kind, and it raises the question whether the employers did not go to extremes in their efforts to reduce the cost of production. This in turn raises the question whether this so-called "cheap" help is really cheap. If their work was not properly done, the reason seems to be that they lacked the intelligence and skill to do it any better. If such was the case, their employment from the standpoint of the mill manager should have been as unsatisfactory as their pay envelopes were to the operatives themselves.

Advancement in the textile industry cannot come through cheap help. New Bedford, which leads the world in the production of the finest cotton goods, has attained its supremacy through its policy of employing the best help obtainable. It does not look to southern Europe to find operatives to run its looms and spinning frames. Its mill men believe in the theory that the best help is the cheapest, and action on this principle they have been able to secure the best cotton mill operatives in the world and gain a pre-eminence in the cotton textile industry that puts New Bedford in a class by itself.

Lawrence mill managers would do well to change their policy and go to the opposite extreme. Let them find help that is intelligent and possessed of capacity and skill. They will find that what they pay out in extra wages will be far offset by the quantity and quality of production.

ALGY IN WRONG AGAIN

A VIEW OF ONE OF OUR PRIVATE OPERATING ROOMS

There are dental offices in this city that are a disgrace to the profession, where the first principles of sanitation are ignored, and where unwholesome conditions exist. These conditions are carelessness on the part of the dentist. Not only are these offices unsanitary, but the instruments used by these careless dentists are the source of infection and dangerous results to the patients, who through ignorance of such existing conditions, patronize unclean offices.

Neglect to sterilize and wash his hands before touching the mouth is another disregard for cleanliness and danger to the patient.

We treat your teeth without pain, by methods approved and endorsed by every reliable dentist and surgeon in the world. Ten years' successful experience. All extractions and every form of dental surgery done painlessly.

THE PRIMARY BILL
Was Passed to be Engrossed by the State Senate

BOSTON, March 7.—The Presidential Preference Primary bill is now in the lower branch of the state legislature. The bill, which provides for direct election of district delegates to national conventions and for popular preferential voting on presidential candidates, was passed to be engrossed in the state senate yesterday afternoon, 17 to 5, on a rising vote.

No discussion preceded the vote. Senator Searles of Middlesex then moved the suspension of rule 3 in order that the bill might be sent without delay to the house. This rule was suspended and the measure went to the lower branch.

In the house, Representative Holmes of Kingston immediately moved the suspension of the rules so that the bill might be given a reading without delay. This was done. On motion of Mr. Holmes the bill was placed first in the orders for today for another reading.

Representative McMorro of Boston offered as an amendment to the bill his own measure for the direct election of all delegates. This will also be taken up this afternoon.

Concentrating their efforts on the bill of Representative Bagley of East Boston for the abolition of capital punishment in this state, the opponents of the death penalty began their fight yesterday afternoon. The hour of adjournment cut off debate. A vote on the measure will be taken this afternoon before the Presidential Primary bill is discussed.

When the adverse reports of the judiciary committee on the various antideath penalty bills were reached yesterday, Representative Bagley, offering his abolition bill as a substitute therefor, attacked with much vigor the death penalty. He denied emphatically the deterrent force claimed for the penalty by those who would retain it.

Mr. Hobbs of Worcester, in charge of the adverse committee reports, opposed substitution.

He pointed out that Maine and Rhode Island are the only New England states which do not have capital punishment, yet both of them have a murder rate more than twice that of Massachusetts.

Mr. Pope of Leominster favored substitution. He said the number of crimes in Massachusetts in recent years, many of them most revolting in their character, shows that murder is not deterred by the present punishment. He said electrocution is perhaps the most distasteful and most cruel method of legal killing.

Mr. Cox of Boston urged that abolition would increase the number of murders.

Adjournment here cut off further debate.

MEETINGS HELD
BY PASSE-TEMPS AND CENTRALVILLE SOCIAL CLUBS

The Passe-Temps and Centralville Social clubs held their regular meetings last night, and transacted considerable business. The former's meeting was held in their rooms, in Cheever street and was largely attended. Hercule A. Toupin occupied the chair, and although no committee was named to join the naturalization movement which was started some time ago among the French clubs of the city, the club voted to support the movement both morally and financially.

President Isidore Trudel presided at the meeting of the Centralville Social club and the attendance there was also very large. Several new members were initiated and applications for membership were received. The president appointed the following to join the executive committee of the naturalization movement: Adolphe Beuchard, Severin Hebert, Pierre Gagnon, Arsene Trudel and Joseph Elie. The meeting came to a close with a whist tournament among the members.
